Orientation

Frosh Encounter New Experiences In Their New Life At QC

Going to college creates a drastic change of lifestyle for freshmen. The "fledgling frosh" get a taste of what it is like to be away from home, without family or friends close by. The Quincy College Orientation Committee (QCOC) furnishes an environment where freshmen can more easily get acquainted with one another through an array of activities all scheduled the first two weeks of school.

Highlights of orientation '90 included roller skating, bowling, and a "Welcome Back Dance." On the very first day, QCOC assigned the freshmen to groups each wearing a different colored T-shirt. An "ice-breaker" activity involved students addressing each fellow teammate, introducing themselves, and saying their own name along with a symbol to represent themselves. The week continued with similar events offering everyone a chance to become relaxed within their new atmosphere while getting to know someone they would not have had the chance to meet under different circumstances.

Finally after endless packets of information, Kevin Carney, Todd Overhoff, Jim Murray and John Graham find time to relax.

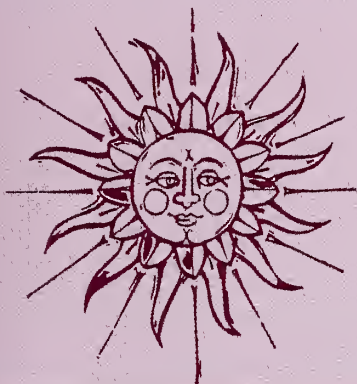

Checking into Centennial, Terri Arendt meets her new Hall Coordinator, Paula Hanley.

"Thank God for Dad," says Jenny Ellis, "or this bike would have never been ridden!"

A traditional favorite, the roulette wheel booth is capably supervised by Chris Stenger.

Teams from all nations are still trying to recruit Chris O'Donnell, but alas, his heart belongs to the Septemberfest hacky-sac competition!

A quintet of qualified queens is the quintessence of "QC-Fever!!" Lisa Ohnemus, Lesa Kort, Lisa Lukaszewski, Jennifer Drew, and Amy Walthusen just won't quit!!

SEPTEMBERFEST

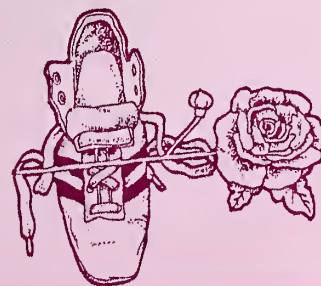

Vocalist Rick Kelly brings Septemberfest to a swinging conclusion with his special brand of reggae!

On September 15, the QC student body joined together for the annual Septemberfest celebration. The event, held at North Campus, helped to raise funds for North Campus Hall Government programs. Several activities were held on this final Saturday of summer including a volleyball tournament and an array of game booths.

In the afternoon, many Hawk football fans took a Septemberfest break to attend the game at Q-Stadium. Some students opted for the varsity soccer match at North Campus Field. An outdoor liturgy was celebrated later in the day followed by a picnic-style dinner.

To top off the evening, vocal soloist Rick Kelly put on an entertaining show featuring lively reggae music. Kelly's performance drew a large crowd of students who kept pace with the performer and his powerful beat. By the time everything had ended, the students barely had enough energy to make it home.

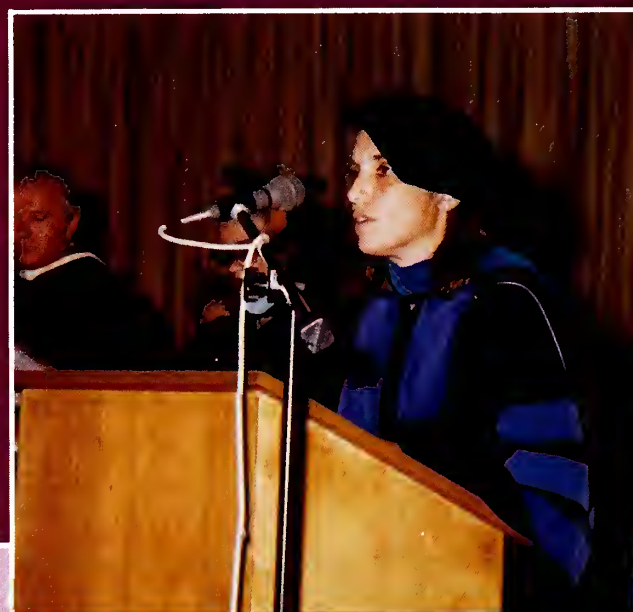

QC celebrated its 130th Anniversary with a flourish beginning with the ceremonial "Transitus" service Oct. 3 commemorating the death of St. Francis through the closing of Fall Festival/ Parents Weekend Oct. 7. Focusing on the College's German heritage was the perfect theme as Germany's own reunification after 30 years of separation was celebrated simultaneously. German officials were invited to take part in QC's busy anniversary schedule which included recognition of Fr. P. Gregory Janknekt, OFM, who sent friars from Germany to establish a mission in Illinois, one which resulted in the founding of QC in 1860! Other special activities included an Anniversary Liturgy, dedication of visionaries plaques, a community luncheon, an art exhibit from St. Louis' Goethe Institute chronicling German migration to the U.S., and an academic convocation featuring honorary degrees, speakers, and special music.

130 Years Of Excellence

MIDDLE RIGHT: Guenter Wasserberg, Consul General of the Federal Republic of Germany; Dr. Thomas J.P. Geer, Director of Fried. Krupp in Essen, Germany; QC President Fr. James Toal; the Very Rev. Robert Karris, Minister Provincial; and Manfred von Hoesslin of the Goethe Institute in St. Louis, all capture the spirit of the celebration. Fr. Karris, Dr. Geer, and 1960 QC graduate Dr. Francis Nessler Karnes (not pictured) were recipients of honorary degrees. RIGHT: Students, faculty, and administrators assemble in QC Memorial Gym for the Academic Convocation.

"Save the last dance for me," says Dan Fichter to the bewitching Lindy Ward.

Fall Festival 1990

Friday's friars' luncheon gives Lisa Lucarelli a chance to catch up on the latest with Fr. Lou Davino.

The annual Biergarten is a success with the German Heidelberg band once again entertaining the crowd for hours. Of course, the popular favorite "chicken dance" is the show stopper.

"The Cotton Club"

One of fourteen nominees this year, senior Sheri Neisen is QC's choice for 1990 Fall Festival queen!

Kicking off Fall Fest Weekend '90, the President's Concert features an enthusiastic performance by the QC Singers.

Capturing the 1920's, Fall Fest's "Cotton Club" theme is carried out with a creative decor of lighting and decorations.

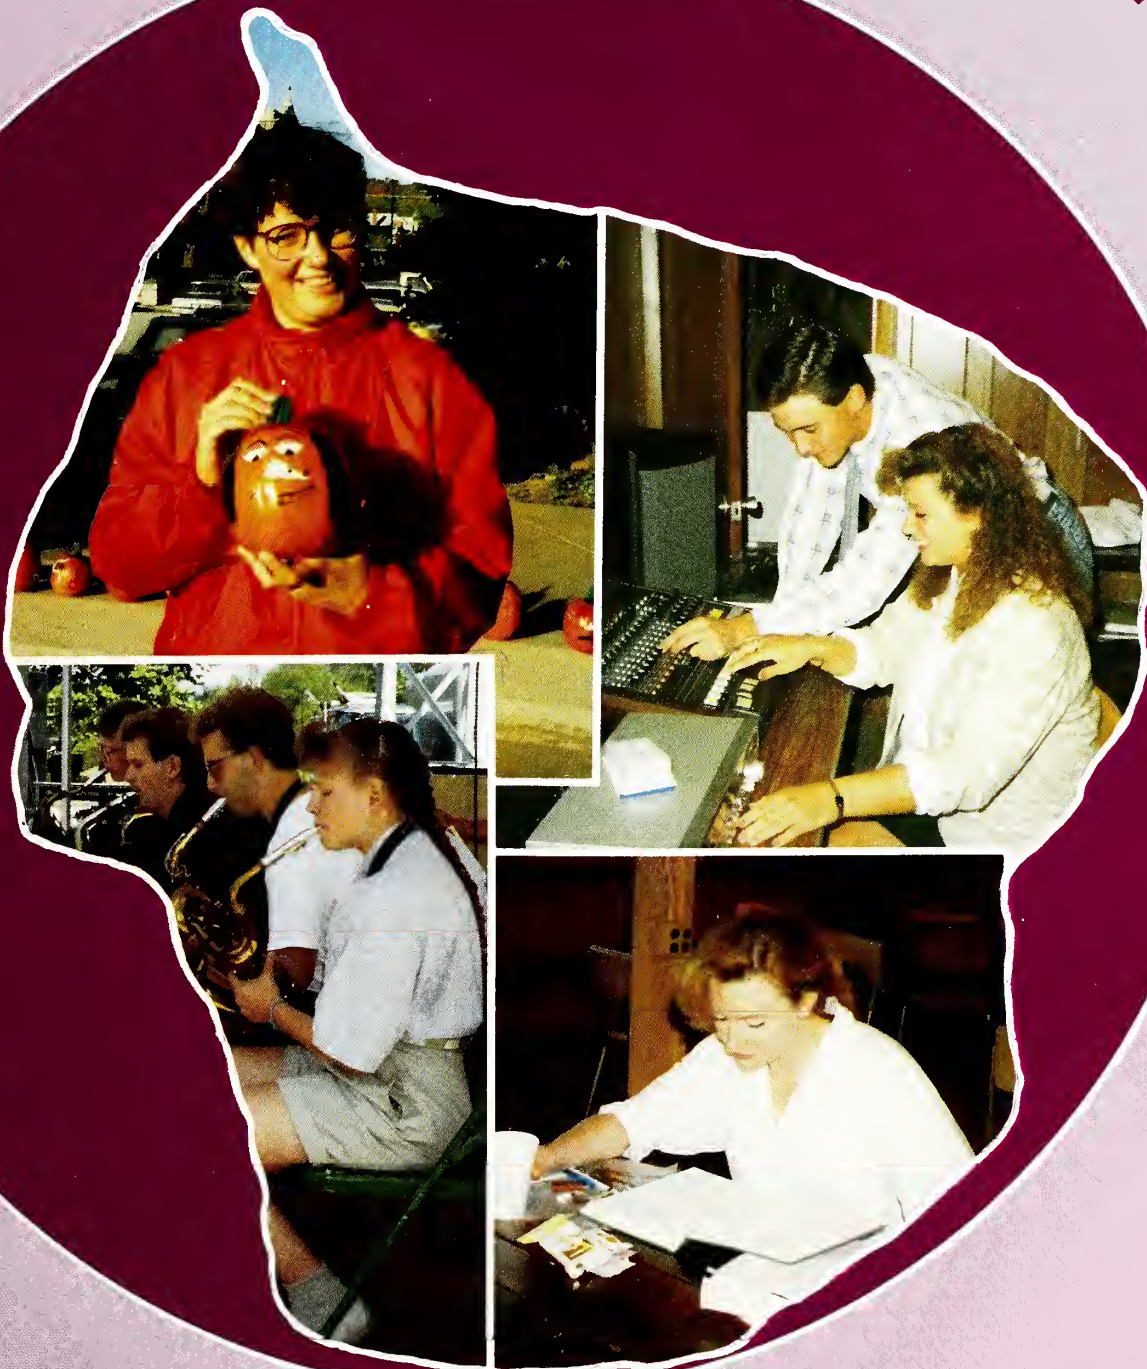

Fall Fest '90 boasted of excitement and activity the weekend of Oct. 5-7. Among many special events was the President's Concert Friday evening featuring the Wind and Jazz Ensembles and QC's vocal groups. Following the concert, QC students & parents continued their toe-tapping at the annual Biergarten, dancing to the lively polka music of the Heidelberg Dutchmen Band. Saturday evening's Fall Fest Dance, held in the QC Gym, highlighted the weekend's festivities with the crowning of senior Sheri Neisen as 1990 Fall Fest Queen. Sheri's court included junior Missy Miller, sophomore Lisa Lucarelli, and freshman Jennifer Drew. Many families also took part in the annual Sunday liturgy and brunch which drew to a close yet another successful Fall Festival/Parents Weekend bash!

A familiar scene at Biergarten: Fr. Dennis Koopman totally involved in his favorite pastime — POLKA DANCING!!

When we were 17 and 18, what an impression we made, remember? Seems like it was only yesterday that we invaded QC with our unique personalities & enthusiasm. These '91 grads have sure changed, haven't they? Joe Rasure, Pam Sheely and Jim Helms look awfully young!

LEFT: It's O.K. Denise Lottman, there is no need to be frightened. LOWER LEFT: Four years, and some of us still haven't changed. Right, Mark Halden? LOWER RIGHT: How come we never had a chance to see you in that tux Tom Zahorik?

Alum Michelle Hennen parties with friends Monica Poelker and Colleen O'Donnell.

Halftime is snacktime for David James, Dave Blonski, Jeff Swigris, and Steve Ebersohl. In the foreground, Jeff Doane discusses the game with friends.

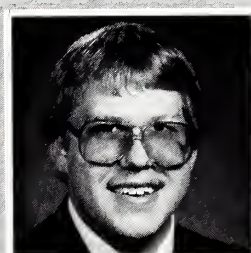

Active participants in 100 days at Larry's are: Tony Walton, Shelly Schuttler, Tony Coco, Lisa Shuster, Kristin DeFife, Eric Elbert, Matt Egel.

Senior Challenge was a fun time for all those involved this year. The class of '91, alumni, and faculty who participated enjoyed a pre-basketball game gathering at the Club, a Super Bowl bash also held at the Club, 100 Days countdown at Larry's Tavern, the annual bar walk, and the champagne brunch. Characteristic of all events were eating, drinking, and plenty of laughter.

The Senior Challenge Committee sought a $91 pledge from each senior, to be paid over a five year period. The 1990-91 program, co-chaired by Jodi Matthews, Kevin Hammond, and Jeff Kestner, played an important part in QC's overall Annual Fund Drive. Familiar friends mixed with new friends to solidify the class of 1991.

Co-chairs for Senior Challenge, who coordinated all of the successful events, are (above) Jodi Matthews, Jeff Kestner, and (below) Kevin Hammond.

Football teammates Bill Terlisner, John Cassidy, and Jerrod Selby show their senior pride by attending the pre-basketball game party held at the Club.

Regal Beagle housemates John Berkery, Ray Kuethe, and Greg Basco discuss the halftime score of both the Super Bowl and the Bud Bowl.

While reciting wish lists, Etta Strubhart, Karen Kirchner, Heather Hanson, and Gina Marketti share the X-mas "spirits".

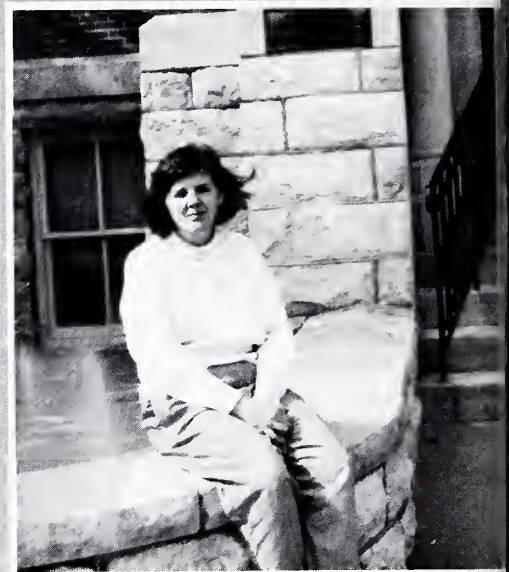

ACCOMPLISHMENTS: SPECIAL PEOPLE IN OUR WORLD

700 colleges and universities are recognized as leading liberal arts institutions by The Sears-Roebuck Foundation. Schools recognized as such are allotted the opportunity to choose a professor who excels in teaching. Criteria for receiving this teaching award include classroom teaching skills, creative course development, student advising, and campus leadership. QC's choice, Dr. John Natalini fits these descriptions well serving as professor, advisor and friend. LEFT: Dr. Natalini is presented with Teacher of the Year plaque by Sears Store Manager Mel Evanoff.

Wife, mother, and student are time-consuming responsibilities, but not for sophomore theology major, Susan Mielke who is awarded the Genevieve Cutrone Endowed Theology scholarship based on her academic achievement and volunteer work.

QC RECOGNIZES

BELOW: The Art Department honors seventeen students in recognition of this year's studio performance, student show work, artistic progress, quality of production, and involvement as an artist. Those honored include STANDING: Esther Basset, Kyle Trudell, Amy Hesselbacher and Jason Mejer; SITTING: Helen Eaton, Sandy Woods and Vicki Sandercock. Also receiving awards are: Daniel Ferguson, Mark Wodarczyk, Elizabeth Allen, Laurie Spilker, Kristi Hogan, Jackie Kirlin, Kathy Duffin, Mary Lou Fin, Mary Cray, and Alice Thomas.

Academic achievement, service, and excellence in student teaching are the criteria that earn Jerry Ellerman the Physical Education Department High Achievement Award.

Two awards given by the Music Department are in memory of alumnus Joseph Fisher. Receiving the Joseph Fisher Scholarship is David Damm and recognized with the Joseph Fisher Performance Award is Charlotte Wolf.

The Division of Language, Literature, and Communication honors English Department graduates, scholarship recipients, and writing contest winners. Outstanding graduate Joni Tittsworth (not pictured) was recognized for her academic achievement and overall class contributions. Among those recognized with writing achievement awards and/or tuition and book scholarships are: Vicki Lenda, Dean Poignant (with his son), Jeff Sullivan, Michelle Zimmerman, Jeff Harrison, Catherine Smart, Michael Gombac, Dave Peterson, Devon Niebling and Kelly Wilson.

ACHIEVEMENT

The Lincoln Academy Award is given annually to a senior excelling in academics and extra-curricular involvement. Gina Marketti, 1990-91 recipient (center), joins Gov. James Thompson and his wife for the award ceremony.

Recognizing outstanding students is part of the Quincy College tradition. Upon the closing of the academic year, each department selects those to be honored with either scholarships or certificates of recognition usually based on academic achievement, service, and/or achievement in the particular field of study.

In 1990-91, 35 students were recognized in their respective majors, one professor was honored for his teaching excellence, and one senior was singled out by QC to be honored by the State of Illinois.

Division of Business and Computer Science award winners include: BACK-Paul Lange (Wall Street Journal Award), Alan Harvey (Personnel Administration Award), Raymond Kuethe (Marketing Award), Joseph Rasure, (Marketing Award). FRONT: Kathy Thomas (Key Award), Gina Marketti (Management Award), Tonia Beadle (Accounting Award).

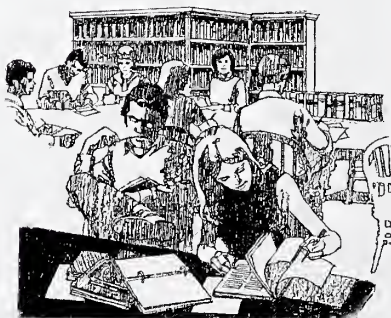

Three students receiving honors for academic achievement and service in sociology and social work include: Melinda Madison, Cindy Orr and Daelene Cramsey.

ACHIEVEMENTS

Recognized by the Division of Education for outstanding achievement in academics and potential for success in teaching are: Margaret O'Brien and Patricia Sutherland.

The 1991 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" included the names of 31 students from Quincy College who were selected as outstanding campus leaders.

Campus nominating committees and editors of the annual directory included the names of these students based on academic achievement, service to the community, leadership, extracurricular activities, and potential for continued success. First published in 1934, the "Who's Who" Directory included names of students from more than 1,400 colleges and universities in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and several foreign nations.

QC students wishing to be considered for inclusion in "Who's Who" were asked to complete a detailed application form listing all activities and accomplishments. Under the direction of the Dean of Students, each entry was evaluated resulting in the final selection.

GIGGLE SNORT HOTEL • • HAPPY HOUR • • NEIGHBO

I'm learning a lot living in a Senior House . . .

TOP: (Giggle Snort Hotel — Bill Bentley): "I can't get rid of my dish pan hands." ABOVE: (Happy Hour): "Our last party may have been a little out of control!"

Senior Brunch

Hosted by the Alumni Office, the 1991 Senior Brunch was indeed a special event that all seniors looked forward to. Launching commencement weekend (Friday, May 17), the gathering was filled with mixed emotions as seniors began to realize that their undergraduate years were coming to a close. The buffet brunch was followed by a program filled with reflection and determination that graduation would not diminish the strong ties and traditions experienced at QC!

Capturing the spirit of friendship and good times are: STANDING-Kim Dull, Paul Voigt, Joe Droll, Mike Wilson, John Berkery. SITTING: Joe Rasure, Jennifer Bauer, Shawn Kane, Rick Rummel, Dave Maloney, Tim Budnik, Ray Kuethe, Lenora Ramey, Greg Basco, Jeff Kestner.

Selected by classmates to give the senior address, Ann Dudek reflects on the many positive changes that have taken place at QC over the past four years and urges the Class of '91 to nourish spiritual growth in their lives.

Baccalaureate Liturgy

LEFT: QC President, Fr. James Toal (far left), presides over the liturgy with assistance from QC friars and guest concelebrant Fr. J. Damien Graziano (in white).

BELOW: QC Chamber Choir and soloist Gina Liddy offer reflective musical selections.

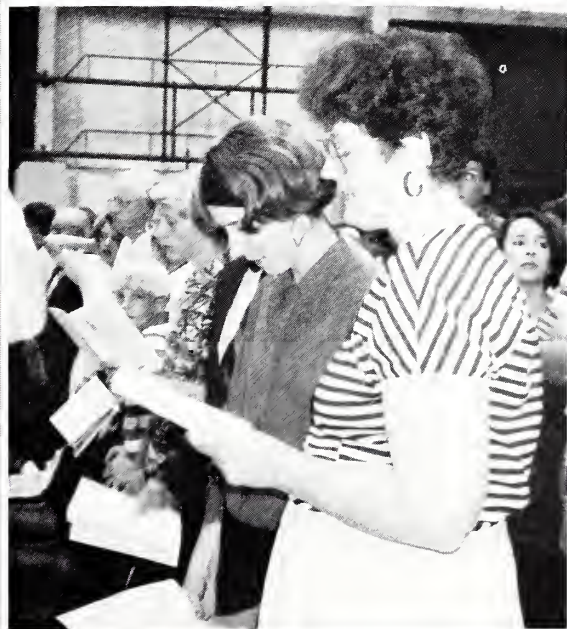

"The gifts we have, we are given to share," was the theme for the May 18 baccalaureate liturgy held in QC Gym. Sr. Ann Redig, OSF, guided the campus ministry student team in planning the Mass which included graduates serving in key liturgical roles. QC President, Fr. James Toal, OFM, was principal celebrant assisted by many friar-priests. Fr. Ken Capalbo, OFM, delivered the homily and the QC Chamber Choir provided vocal selections. It was a quiet time of thanksgiving for the many rich experiences fulfilled at QC.

Participating in the baccalaureate liturgy is a graduation weekend highlight for many parents and graduates including Lisa Schuster and her Mom.

Commencement '91

College Marshal Fr. Philibert Hoebing, (center); and flagbearers Marcus Brown and Meghan Hanrahan lead graduates and faculty in commencement procession to Memorial Gym.

ABOVE: Graduation speaker Robert K. Hentzen shares his message by singing an old Guatemalan folk song, "May your corn grow, may your beans grow, may your rice grow, and may God bless you."

RIGHT: Recipients of Honorary Doctor of Laws degrees visit with QC President Fr. James Toal prior to ceremony: Robert K. Hentzen, President of the Christian Foundation for Children and Aging; John B. Runde, retired businessman; and Hon. Joseph J. Simeone, Senior Justice, Missouri Court of Appeals.

Recognized for achieving highest academic honors (summa cum laude), Paula Cornwell, Donald Lohman, Gina Marketti, Margaret O'Brien, Vicki Sandercock, Carolyn Zeiger, Ellen Rigor, Robin Martin, Paul Lange, and Christine Bickhaus proudly display their Bonaventure Medals presented by Dr. Kenneth Conroy, Academic Dean (back). Medals were designed by Fr. Tom Brown, OFM, Art Department Chairman.

Friends and families gathered in Memorial Gymnasium Sunday, May 19, to participate in QC's 128th commencement ceremonies. 225 candidates were presented to QC President, Fr. James Toal, OFM, for conferral of baccalaureate degrees, and seven were awarded the Master of Business Administration degree (M.B.A.).

Keynote speaker, Robert K. Hentzen, President of the Christian Foundation for Children and Aging, shared a simple message in both words and song as he recounted his experiences as a volunteer in third-world communities. "Be people of service, stay close to nature, and pray," he said.

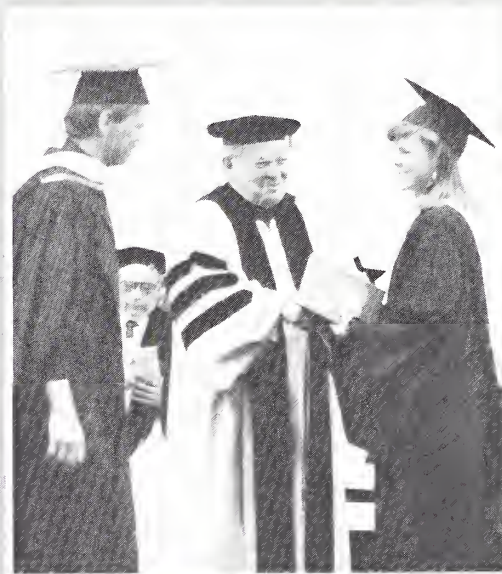

Many families and friends are on hand in Memorial Gymnasium to share in the pride of accomplishment with the Class of '91.

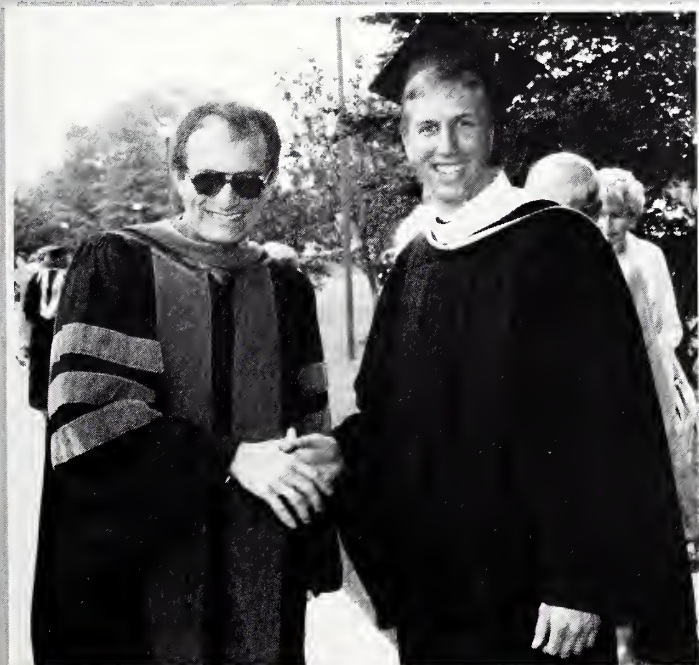

"What will my future bring?" — seems to be on the minds of social work graduates Kathy Bianchi, Tracy Edwards, Michelle Kurlandski, and Tim Lawless.

Commencement is a family celebration for Ann Dudek who is presented with a bouquet of flowers following the ceremony.

Joining QC President Fr. James Toal on the podium, Fr. Dennis Schafer (left) congratulates his niece, Monica Schafer.

Faculty members are sometimes the proudest of all as they share in the accomplishments of their students. Dr. John Natalini takes the opportunity to congratulate Dave Jablonski.

A moment of realization and mixed emotions is captured on the faces of Karen Kirchner and Etta Strubhart, here celebrating with sophomore Jamie Anderson.

Living It Up

At Lind Street

BELOW: The relaxed duo of Carrie Peirick and Mike McCorvie adds a personal touch as they respond to friends in the fashion show audience.

Making cookies for the Lind Street cookie sale occupies Kami Davenport, Christine Rejent, Cali Anderson and Vicki Lenda.

BELOW: After a busy day Mike Renner collapses in his suite.

In addition to academics and extra-curricular activities, many fun-filled events at Lind Street Hall kept junior and senior residents busy throughout the year. As new groups moved in at the start of the year, they each added a unique flavor to the character of Lind Street Hall in 1990-91.

Halloween was an enjoyable experience for those residents who took advantage of greeting and treating area youngsters in costume. The Valentine Day cookie sale (a major fundraiser) once again drew QC's top bakers to the Student Center cafeteria to display their culinary talents. Exciting as always, many residents got to show off their modeling capabilities during the Mom's Weekend fashion extravaganza.

Throughout the year many friendships were born and quality time was spent developing the kind of relationships that bond college students together for a lifetime.

Centennial Hall ... Q.C.'s Finest

We're not just faces in a crowd; we are a family. We are spontaneous and prefer living on the edge. We laugh and cry together, party together and most of all, we live together!

We were proud of our very special event this year: hosting the ROCK APO party in October, a day of dedication and recollection for our soldiers stationed in the Persian Gulf. We wrote letters and sent warm wishes and hope overseas.

Ours was a year of stress, love, laughs, and, of course, growing up. Centennial Hall ROCKS!

CLOCKWISE FROM TOP LEFT: Couch Twister was a new game at Centennial invented by: Kim Dillon, Laurie Spilker, Curt Stelzer, Paul Arndt, Brandy Connelly, & John Stenger.

Ready for another night on the town are freshmen Tammy Laprade and Tara Charvat.

All dressed up and ready for Halloween are: Melinda Bleiler, Scott Hicks, Sue Fremgen, Cathy Willenborg, Kari Ann Beyer, Kim Dillon.

Say cheese Scott Krase!

Sleeping is what Siobhan Cafferty does best.

A jovial Chris Stenger doesn't notice the concentration of her teammates Karin O'Neill, Karen Brecklin, and Karen Calfee.

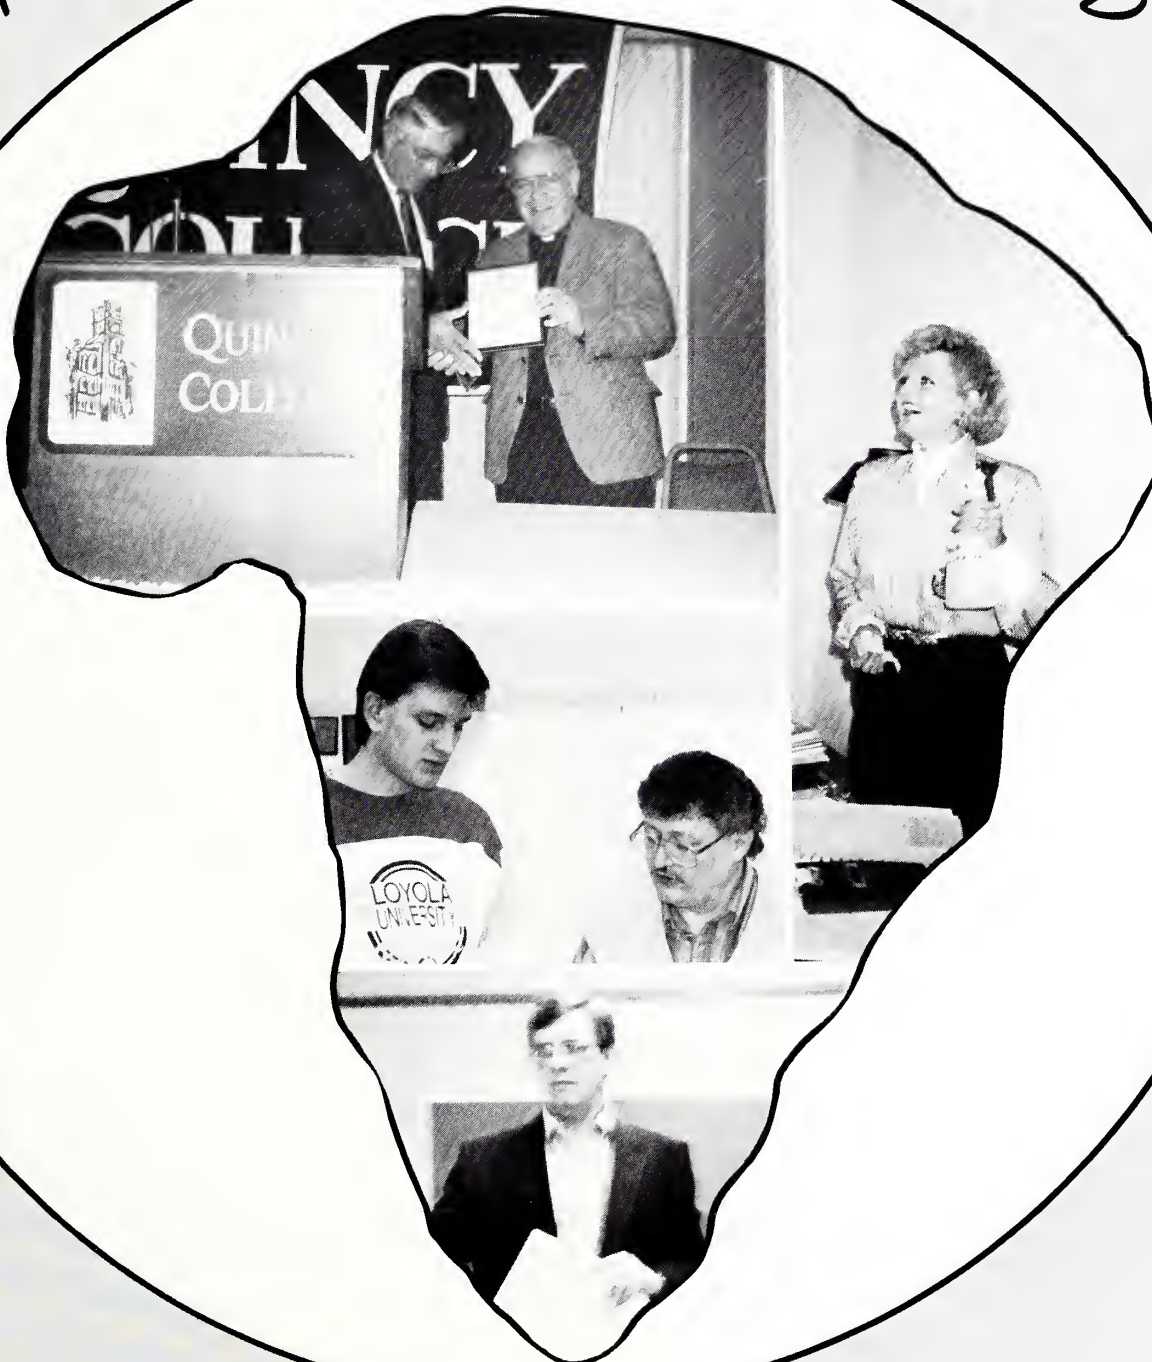

Cutting hair is a group project for Caryn Mazzola, Darrin Haworth, and Eric Shogren.

North Campus residents Scott Krase, Karen Calfee, Josh Dirksen, Siobhan Cafferty, Pat Werner, and Theresa Allison enjoy the Fall Fest.

Executive Committee: Setting The Wheels In Motion

Carrying out the mission of QC, members of the Executive Committee met on a weekly basis to discuss major issues leading to the continued growth and success of the College. In addition to addressing such topics as student services, financial aid, budgetary concerns, enrollment status, fundraising, and curriculum development, the group worked closely with the community to improve the quality of education on all levels in the area.

Support Staff

Keeping QC Fine Tuned!

Ready at a moment's notice to take on a number of major tasks, QC's support staff has been the backbone of the College since it was founded 131 years ago. QC's office assistants and secretaries assume responsibility for accurate completion of special projects while handling the College's day-to-day operation. Their professionalism and positive attitude remain significant in the ongoing success of Quincy College.

QC's major administrative secretaries: FRONT-Marge McMullen, Treasurer; Donetta Allen; Academic Dean. BACK. Janet Peters, Vice President for College Advancement; Marie Danker, Dean of Student Services.

Always willing to lend a helping hand are: Ann Kies, Brenner Library; Kay Goehl, Information Office & Business Office; Pam Blacketer, Information Office; Sharon Barnett, Print Shop; and Vivian Funke, Brenner Library.

ABOVE: Students, faculty, and administrators can always rely on FRONT-Jeanette Speckhart, Financial Aid; and Marla Hoener, Registrar's Office. BACK-Carolyn Owsley, Business Office; Beulah Lomax, Annual Fund Office, Mary Betts, Registrar's Office; Joan Kuhn, Financial Aid; and Mary Lou Hultz, Division of Education.

Underclassmen Marty Schafer, Vince Dattilo, and Chris George are a great asset to this year's soccer squad.

Trained, Billy Southwood awaits control of the ball.

Coach Jack Mackenzie joins close pal Frank Longo at 300th career-win celebration.

Fleet-footed senior Mike Mollay looks downfield for more opportunities.

With his eyes set on the net, John Ashworth moves into the opposition's territory.

The Men's 1990 Soccer season can be described much like a rollercoaster. The ups and downs seemed endless . . . from beating nationally ranked Adelphi to losing six games each by one goal . . . from Coach Jack Mackenzie's 300th career win to only the third losing season of his career. The team will miss the seniors next year, but can look forward to an exciting, rebuilding year in 1991-92. Graduating from the 1990 team will be Big Central Soccer All-Conference selection Sean Bowers, defensive stalwarts Greg Basco, Mike Mollay, and the winning goalkeeper of Coach Mackenzie's 300th career win, Jeff Kestner.

WOMEN'S SOCCER

Charging for the ball, Katie Ehlman stretches to gain another goal while Michelle Austin backs her up.

Playing the toughest schedule in Lady Hawk soccer history, Coach Bill Postiglione's squad finished the season with a record of 7-8-0.

QC played four NCAA Div. I clubs, as well as a host of nationally-ranked NCAA Div. II teams including top-ranked Barry U. and third-ranked NC-Greensboro in the Domino's Pizza Women's Classic in Greensboro, NC Sept. 22-24.

For the third consecutive year, junior Katie Ehlman paced the Brown and White in scoring with 6 goals and 2 assists for 14 points. Freshman Laurie Menke enjoyed a banner rookie campaign with 5 goals and 3 assists or 13 points, good for second on the team.

The Lady Hawks were once again well represented on the 1990 All-South Region Team. Junior Michelle Hackett was a first team selection, while Katie Ehlman and junior Missy Miller were both named to the second team. Hackett was also named to the All-Tourney teams in four different events during the 1990 campaign.

Under the direction of first-year Head Coach Jill Vogel, the Lady Hawk volleyball team posted a 11-25 record in a season marred by injuries. Five new players joined the squad in August, including three freshmen walk-ons. A tournament at the University of Missouri-St. Louis in early September proved to be the QC spikers' best showing of the season. Rhonda Hinkamper led all players on the year in serving and serve reception. Freshman Lori Cornwell had the best blocking percentage; and juniors Colleen Collins and Missy Blackburn had the highest attack percentages at 84%.

LOWER LEFT: Enjoying a record-breaking season, senior Brad Lemen finishes 13th in the nation in total offense.

Coach Randy Dickens' 1990 football Hawks finished the season with a 6-4 record ... the second straight winning season for the QC grid program.

Highlighting the season was a 29-0 shutout victory over arch-rival Culver-Stockton College on a bright, sun-drenched, crisp September afternoon at Q-Stadium. QC finished 28th in the nation in scoring offense, averaging 30.6 points per game.

Seniors Brad Lemen and Jerry Ellerman etched their names in the QC football record books, closing out outstanding collegiate careers. Their names were listed among the nation's leaders in kickoff return average and total offense. The Hawks' 21 seniors on the 1990 team were the first group of QC football players to participate in a full varsity schedule all four years. These players were instrumental in helping lead the football Hawks to a record of 13-6-1 over the past two campaigns.

Funky music and exotic moves keep the crowd entertained during halftime of Hawk basketball contest.

The 1990-91 season for the Pom-Pon squad was filled with exhausting rehearsals and vigorous training. Creativity allowed the squad to perform many unique routines throughout the soccer, football, and basketball seasons.

Captains Oshea Ostermueller and Stacey McElroy joined other squad members in choreographing original and entertaining halftime programs.

Adjusting to both the hot and cold weather at Q-Stadium and North Campus Field, and the close atmosphere in Memorial Gym was a challenge, but the group's successful efforts didn't go unnoticed as hundreds of fans showed their appreciation following each performance.

In addition to skill and precision, trust is crucial for Lisa Hull as she plunges into the waiting arms of her fellow teammates.

There was always "a Hawk in the house" when the QC cheerleaders were around. With the help of the Squawk Club, the cheerleaders were able to keep the crowd fired up while making sure the team's enthusiasm was in high gear. 1990-91 co-captains Sheri Neisen and Barb Kuchar led the squad in performing dazzling cheers and dynamite crowd pleasers. Fund raisers for the cheerleaders this year included a mini cheerleading clinic for youngsters and other events.

RIGHT: This intimidating, "come-and-get-it" stare by senior Mike Harlow would threaten any opponent. Harlow finishes the season with a single game high of 25 pts.

BELOW: One of the shining new stars of the season, sophomore Garland Grant, will be returning to QC following a tough, injury-filled season; and looks to better his team-leading rebound average of 6.1. Height and versatility are what keep this QC player flying high.

Injuries and early season defections by two key recruits cost the Hawks, as QC fell to 10-18.

Highlighting the season was a record-breaking 96-79 victory over Lincoln University at Memorial Gymnasium. The Hawks connected on a school-record 14 three-point field goals in the contest.

Bret Kasubke was the lone four-year player on the team. He appeared in all 28 games, and started more games (27) than any other Hawk player. Seniors Mike Harlow and Rick Fluckey concluded their QC hoop careers as well. Harlow established several QC school records for three-point field goals in his two-year career, and paced the Brown and White in scoring this season. Fluckey was one of only four QC players to appear in all 28 games.

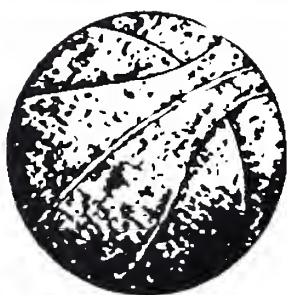

BELOW: REBOUND OR SWOOSH! The always-ready QC players are prepared for any situation. Timel Moore, Mike Harlow, Rick Fluckey and Garland Grant are poised for the appropriate action which will be dictated by the swirling orange ball in the air.

Women's Basketball

A much improved Lady Hawk basketball team took to the floor this year under new Head Coach Jim Bearden, who had served as the men's assistant for six years. The women finished with a 10-18 record, winning 6 of their last 10 outings. With 4 returning hoopsters and 8 new players, the efforts of the team did not go unnoticed as more fan support became evident. Highlights of the season included whipping 11th ranked Emporia State in Memorial Gym and beating Culver-Stockton 76-60 on their own floor.

ANDERSON CHOSEN ALL-CENTRAL

WOMEN'S SOFTBALL

Everyone needs advice and Coach John Stutsman is just the man to give Lesa Kort the inside scoop on the next play as well as an encouraging pat on the shoulder.

BELOW: Commitment doesn't end for Amy Flesner on the basketball court. Versatility in all sports is what makes this athlete great.

RIGHT: An All-Central pick for QC and batting a record-breaking season, sophomore Jamie Anderson is definitely an asset to the team.

Catcher Michelle Frese protects home-plate with everything she's got.

Led by first-team All-Central Region second baseman Jamie Anderson, the QC Lady Hawk softball team rolled to a 30-24 season. These 30 wins mark the highest victory total for a Lady Hawk team since the 1985 squad went 40-7 and captured the NAIA National Championship.

Establishing a QC record for most hits in one season, Anderson collected 64 this Spring. Changing the record books at QC, Anderson's .403 batting average was the second highest single season average in Lady Hawk history.

Winning the last five games of the season gave the Lady Hawks a very uplifting finale. Most of this record-breaking team returns in the fall, graduating only two seniors.

PRANSKY ENDS QC CAREER

MEN'S BASEBALL

RIGHT: Setting a school record for steals in a career (72) and in a season (40), senior outfielder Eric Shogren shows how it's done illustrating his form in yet another base-stealing situation ... and yes, he's SAFE!

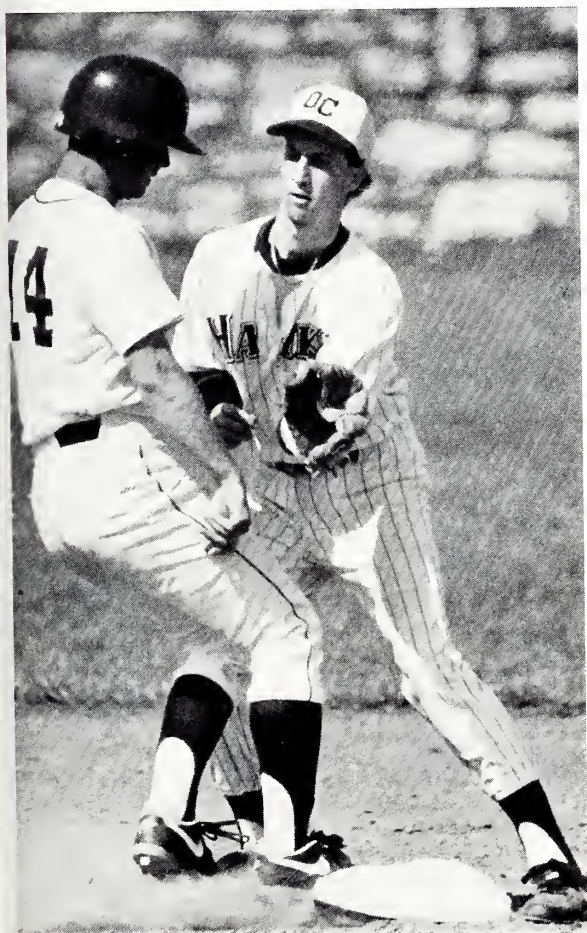

BELOW: Hitting at a .331 clip this year, senior second baseman Steve Ebersohl steps up to the plate ready to intimidate the pitcher, AGAIN!

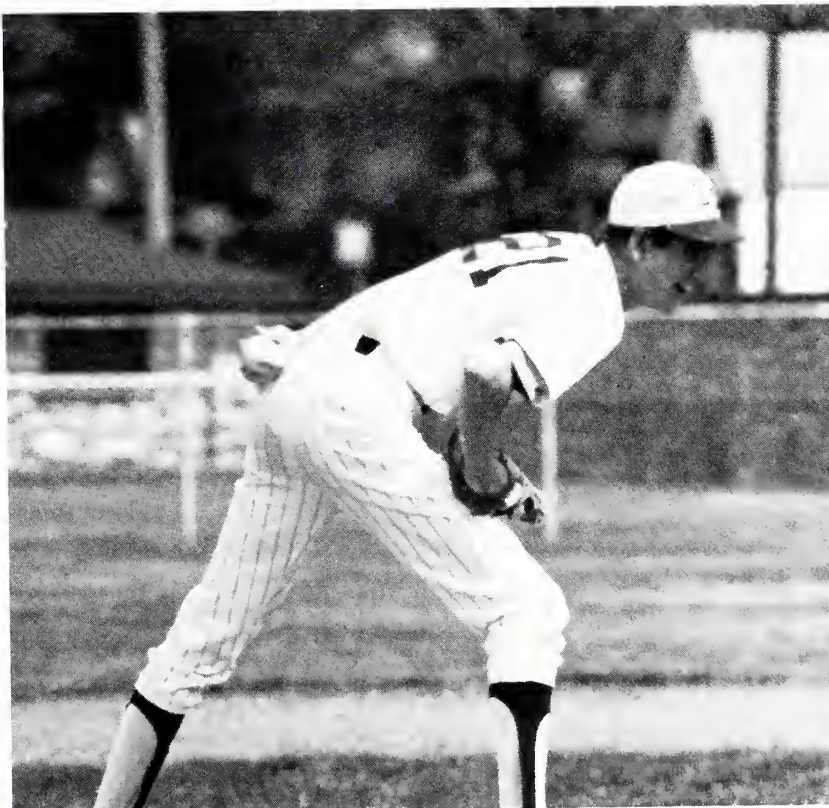

Following a 25-17 mark in 1990, the QC Hawk baseball team equaled their win total in the Spring of '91 with a record of 25-15-2. It was the first time since 1980 and 1981 that a Hawk baseball team posted back-to-back winning seasons. QC jumped to 4th in the N. Central Region during the season, the first time a Hawk baseball team has been ranked in the region since moving the NCAA Div. II level. Coach Jim Pransky, who led QC to a 50-32-2 mark in two years, resigned at the end of the season, and was replaced by assistant coach Pat Atwell. Seven seniors played major roles in revitalizing the program. Sophomore catcher Burk Bruninga, who led the '91 Hawks with a .343 average, was a District 5 GTE/CoSIDA Academic All-America selection.

BELOW: Junior shortstop Brent Jackson, among QC's top eight batters, is also a speedy infielder as he tags out the opponent.

BELOW: Senior pitcher Mike Heinz finishes the season with a respectable ERA of 2.82 and a record of 5-3.

1991 Men's Volleyball Team — FRONT: Henry Francis, Eric Elbert, Jamie Henning, Al Bella and Dave Reyna. BACK: Head Coach Andy Wellman, Brady Collings, Jimmie Murray, Pat Gibson, John Ducey, Brian Serati, Sean Bowers, Assistant Coach Kelly Druffel and Assistant Coach Jill Vogel.

A pair of versatile seniors led the '91 Hawk volleyball team to an impressive 19-10 record. Sean Bowers and John Ducey took their athletic talents to the volleyball court to lead the Brown and White to yet another outstanding year.

Among QC's 19 victories were a pair of wins over Missouri-Columbia & Eastern IL Univ. The Hawks once again advanced to the Midwest Intercollegiate Volleyball Association Tournament (MIVA) in Battle Creek, MI.

In addition to his volleyball talents, Sean Bowers was team captain and leading scorer for the Hawk soccer team and posted a 6-1 mark on the Hawk tennis team. In addition to playing volleyball, John Ducey was also a member of the Hawk basketball, baseball and tennis teams during his QC career.

Hats off to the multi-sport stars of 1990-91!

Fans

As we praise the athletes at Quincy College, there is another group we need to recognize .. THE FANS! Without QC fans there would be a diminished feeling of spirit and pride, factors so important to the players and coaches. Whatever the game, fans were an integral part of QC's 1990-91 athletic accomplishments!

Those who supported QC this year came filled with enthusiasm and cheered as the both the Hawks and Lady Hawks faced tough opponents in basketball, football, softball, soccer, baseball, tennis and volleyball.

This year, students got together to form a cheering club, the "Squawks," led by Jim Naumovich and Ann Rasure. Activities included half-time events at soccer ("Kickin' for Chicken") and football ("Pizza Hut Hut Hut"/"Punt, Pass and Kick") games. The Squawks Club was also responsible for theme nights, fliers, and banners.

QC students enjoy a pep rally bonfire to psyche the football team up before the Culver-Stockton game.

Fans like Josh Dirksen, Scott Krase, Karen Calfee, Kelly Bracken, Pat Werner, and Lisa Ohnemus show their support for the Hawks.

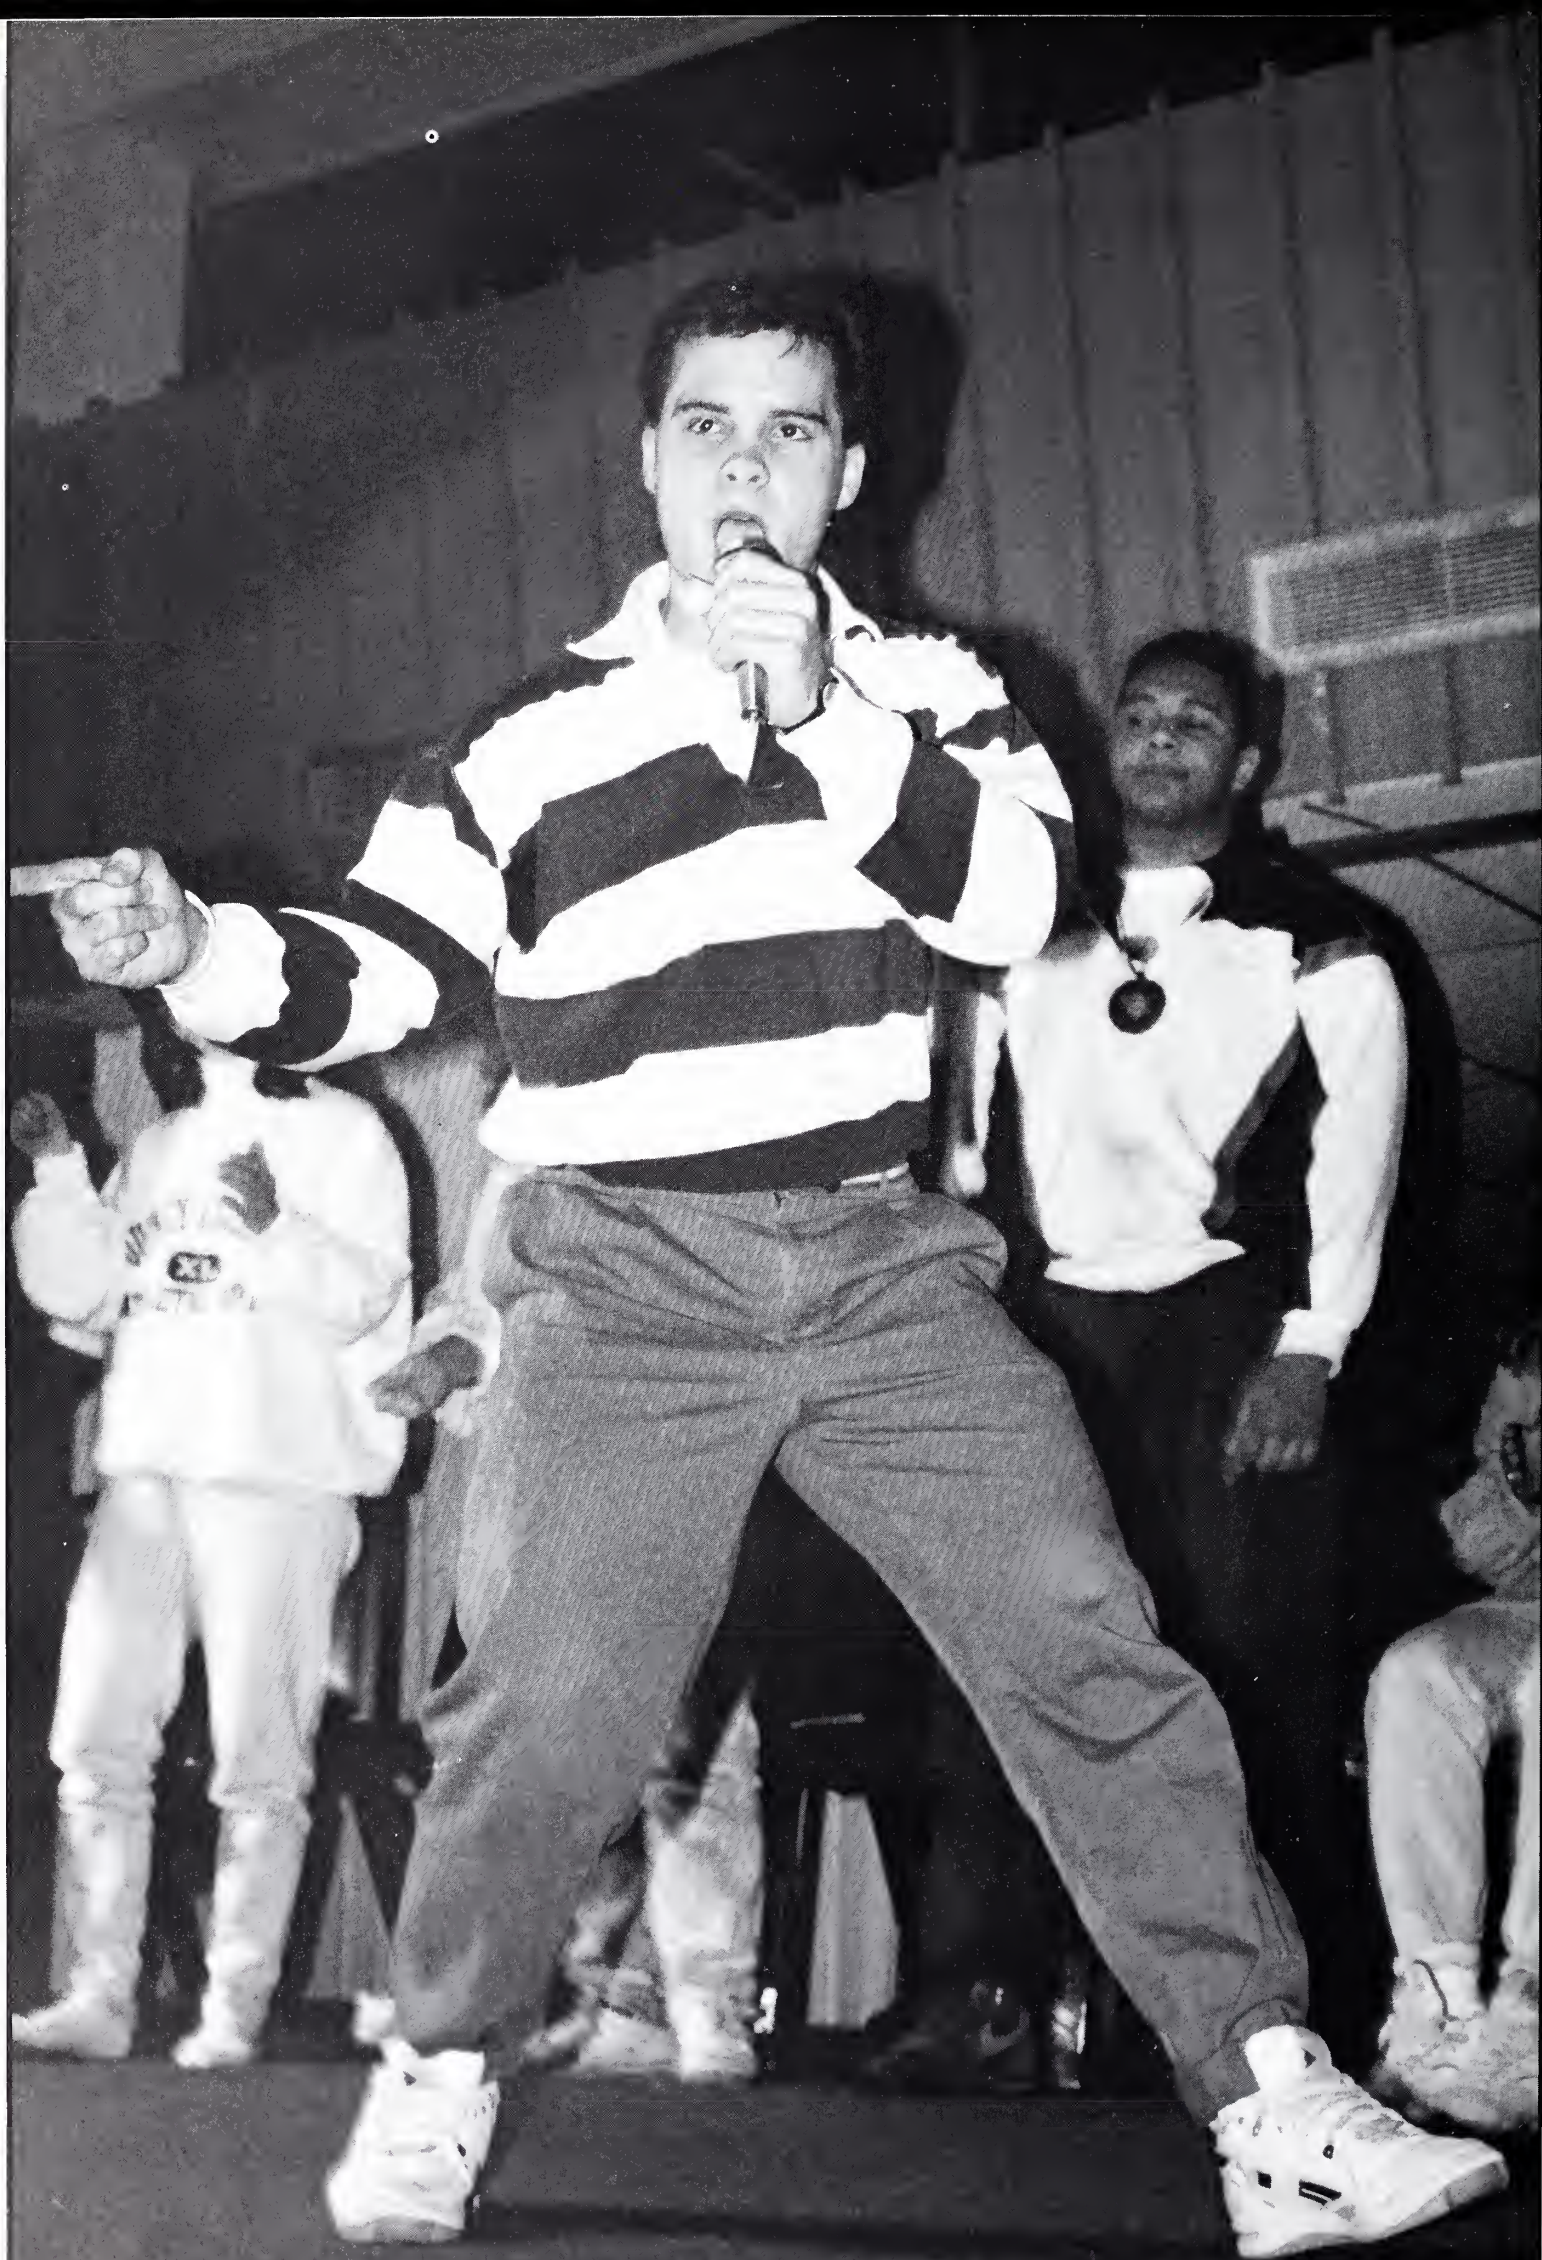

Taking his cue from the football team's victory over Eureka 18-17, the Hawk brings the Red Devil to his knees.

SPEAKERS

LEFT: A special speaker for SAA's Eye Opener Lecture Series, Nobel Peace Prize winner Betty Williams explains how her protests against senseless killing of children in Northern Ireland gave birth to the Community of Peace People. RIGHT: Writing and Writing Assessment is the topic of a faculty development seminar given by guest speaker Nancy Baker of Southeast Missouri State University.

A QC faculty panel offers the community varying perspectives on the Persian Gulf Crisis. Participating are Fr. Ken Capalbo, David Costigan, Dr. Wendell Mauter, and Dr. Leonard Biallas.

Experiencing views by those both inside and outside the College circle is a necessary part of a liberal arts education. Guest speakers at QC have always been a significant factor in offering the College community a special edge in developing an open mind on major issues.

This year, the QC community was in the position to pick and choose from a wide variety of speakers that were of particular interest to them including those featured in the SAA Eye Opener Lecture Series, the Town & Gown Reading/Lecture Series, the President's Forum Breakfast Series, and other special events.

BELOW: Comedienne and motivational speaker Dr. Bertice Berry enjoys visiting with Marcus Brown and other QC friends following one of two presentations given this year.

Q.C. CONTINUES TO CHANGE

A flexible QC community adapted quickly at the start of the new year when finishing touches on the brand new lobby entrance of Francis Hall offered everything but a quiet academic atmosphere . . . closed off access . . . dust everywhere . . . equipment blasting when one least expected it, etc . . . , etc . . . Maintenance crews worked 'round the clock in order to complete the project in anticipation of the Oct. 4 dedication ceremony.

Memories of inconvenience disappeared, however, when QC's 130th Anniversary celebration drew near and the job was completed.

Installation of a new elevator system, wall-to-wall carpeting, wallpaper, and rich oak beams, doors, and baseboards were among major improvements made.

Q.C.: A TRUE MELTING POT

Throughout the year, QC addressed issues relating to racial prejudice and respect for human rights. Among special observances were the "The Year 2000: Prejudice Puzzle," a week-long program on campus in conjunction with WWQC-FM's broadcast of the National Public Radio series. On-campus discussions were led by Fr. Lou Davino in Lind Street Hall and sophomore R.A. Marcus Brown at North Campus. Martin Luther King's contributions were also spotlighted with guest speakers and student participation.

Out On The Town

Alpha-Omega cast of "Butterflies Are Free" join SAA chairperson Anne Brinkman (second from right).

Assisting theater patrons with seating assignments, SAA Director Theresa Powell serves as a "troubleshooter" during the event.

To accommodate large community audiences desiring to attend QC's successful dinner theater program, members of the Student Activities Association cultural affairs committee expanded the event offering two productions in 1990-91. Since the Alpha-Omega Players (professional acting troupe) were in a position to perform any one of four different productions, QC selected "Plaza Suite" and "Butterflies Are Free" to run on two consecutive evenings January 26-27 in the Student Center.

Saturday evening's performance of Neil Simon's "Plaza Suite" told three separate stories — all hilariously taking place in the same hotel suite.

Sunday's production of the 60s play, "Butterflies Are Free" captured the free spirit of that era focusing on a young "less-than-settled" woman who falls in love with a blind man determined to make it on his own despite obstacles created by his doting mother.

Appetizing buffet dinners prepared by Southwest Dining, solid performances by the actors, and a well-organized SAA committee, all combined to give avid theater-goers two enjoyable evenings of entertainment.

It's a Sunday night out for "Butterflies Are Free" fans Christine Rejent, Mark Miller, Carin Bohumolski, and Sean Jones.

Versatile Alpha-Omega Players make quick costume and character changes for "Plaza Suite."

HALLOWEEN

Little Brother/Sister Weekend captures the little siblings visiting with Dracula, Raggedy Ann, Andy, and a leopard lookalike at the Halloween Dance.

Preparing Gina Liddy's costume requires some assistance from Katherine Selkirk.

Playing host to their visiting nieces and nephews from Springfield, Jim, Carolyn, and Laura Naumovich (can you find them in this crowd??) shake off the hay while planning their next Little Brother/Sister Weekend adventure!

"Ladies of the Night" Chris Drew and Mike Heinz keep Halloween activities under control at Lind Street.

Halloween at Quincy College is always a "treat." In conjunction with Little Brother/Sister Weekend, Student Activities Association organizers sponsored a tie-dyeing party outside the Union and the annual dance and costume contest, a popular event for the visiting family members. Originality and uniqueness prevailed as costumes included everything from Hershey kisses to George and Barbara Bush. A trick-or-treat open house for the Quincy community was held in the residence halls from 4-7 pm. Ghosts and goblins as well as Bart Simpsons and Ninja Turtles were escorted throughout the campus and rewarded for being so cute! As always, the "big kids" enjoyed the holiday as much as the little ones.

In addition to the cafeteria, Southwest Dining Food Service operates the Cellar and Eatery to serve hungry students. The cafe offers meals at all regular meal times; the Cellar is open 8 a.m.-3 p.m.; and the Eatery provides lunches, dinners, and late night snacks. Hump Day Hooplas

After lecturing on a Tuesday, Dr. Bertice Berry stays over an extra night to bring a little humor to the QC campus before departing.

Even though he's just a dummy, Taylor Mason's "friend" tickles the crowd's funny bone.

The unexpected Southern accent of Henry Cho (above) surprises and entertains the students while Bradley Lowery (below) shares his sidesplitting stories of growing up.

The cold Quincy weather doesn't keep John McDonnell from warming up to the crowd.

Chairpersons for the Hump Day Hoopla committee, Kerry Clancy and Dave Freuhling, introduce one of the acts.

The Student Activities Association annually sponsors "Hump Day Hoopla" on Wednesday nights to get over the middle-of-the-week "hump." Many students, as well as Quincy community residents, attended this year's potpourri of professional comedians, ventriloquists, hypnotists, and musicians. Acts performing at QC have been seen on MTV, Star Search, and other programs. Making it through the rest of the week after enjoying a laugh or two was a lot less stressful for those who attended the series.

This crowd anxiously awaits the punchline of the performer.

QC's 1990-91 Residence Hall staff did an outstanding job of handling the ups and downs of day-to-day living in the halls. Additional programs included packaging donated items destined for American troops serving in the Middle East's Operation Desert Storm. In the Spring, the RAs also helped students blow off steam before finals by sponsoring "Operation Hog Wild," an annual event featuring outdoor competition, entertainment, and good food.

Moms And Dads

ACME Vocals, with their amazing talent, stunned the audience with music ranging from love songs to heavy metal.

Mom's Weekend (March 8-10) was very much enjoyed by both students and parents. Friday night's events included a Mastery Cake Decorating session and the Spring Musical, "Jesus Christ Superstar." Saturday was a busy day with QC's first-ever Antique/Craft Show, the annual Lind Street Fashion Show, and an appearance by Chicago's ACME Vocals an cappella quintet. Sunday brunch following Mass in the chapel concluded the special weekend. Congrats to senior Kristin Kelleher who served as chairperson for the event.

Brunch on Sunday brings the weekend to a close for Rob Lindsey and his father.

Dads began arriving on campus Friday, February 1, for a fun-filled Father's Weekend '91!

Friday's Casino Night in the Student Union was the main attraction of the weekend furnishing students and their special visitors an opportunity to try their luck at blackjack, roulette and other casino-style games. Even though the games weren't for real, stakes were high and competition was fierce!

Saturday's events included a "Father's Weekend Show" aired over WWQC-FM featuring interviews with students and their dads. Evening entertainment was provided by award-winning comedian Happy Cole.

Sunday liturgy in the QC chapel and a farewell brunch concluded the weekend. Sponsored by Interhall, the event allowed dads to "spoil their kids" and feel young again!

Advice from Karen Force, John Flynn, Josh Dirksen, and Pat Werner helps to keep dads on the winning track at Casino Night.

While Michelle Kurlandski surveys her winnings, dad offers his approval.

Little Siblings Invade QC

Greeting her Mom and younger sisters following their long trip from Naperville to Quincy is junior Colleen O'Meara. Sharing the slower-paced lifestyle of a small Mississippi town is a welcome challenge for many QC students.

QC students and their special visitors enjoy cartoons in the Union's TV lounge on Saturday morning. From the look of the students' faces, this is the earliest they've been up on a weekend morning all semester!

When going away to college, many students leave behind brothers and sisters. QC hosted the annual Little Brother/Little Sister Weekend November 2-4 to give siblings a chance to visit campus. Activities included a Halloween dance and costume contest sponsored by SAA. Saturday featured breakfast and the movie "The Little Mermaid" in the TV Lounge and the afternoon, sibs had the choice of attending a women's volleyball game or Quincy Hawk football game. The weekend concluded with Mass and brunch on Sunday.

Students Megan Hanrahan and Tim Marti carry a box of food their group gathered for the competition.

QC's Drive To Help Others

Chairpersons Devon Niebling and Melanie Ahern weigh part of the 4000+ pounds of food collected during this year's Food Drive.

A look of excitement overcomes Lisa Deany after successfully donating a pint of blood.

The Weight of Success

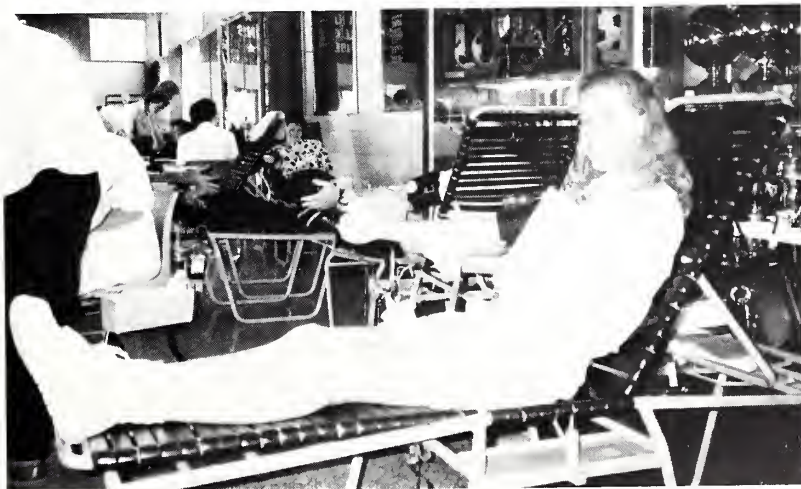

QC's Circle K Club and co-chairpersons, Devon Niebling and Melanie Ahern, organized another successful Thanksgiving Food Drive this year. During the campaign, over 4,000 pounds of food were collected, an amount which surpassed their goal by 1,000 lbs.

On November 11, between noon and 5 p.m., small groups of students and faculty canvassed the Quincy area, collecting food from the generous community. The WWQC team collected the largest amount of food for the second year in a row. At the end of the day, all participants met in the Union for dinner, provided by Quincy restaurants. All donations collected were then distributed to those in need by the Ladies of Charity.

Helping Save a Life

The American Red Cross set up shop in the gym annex four times throughout the year as part of its annual blood collection program. Many students took part in the year-round activity realizing that their donation could help to save another person's life. The drives were quite successful as QC surpassed its goal of 200 pints, and received a special recognition certificate from the American Red Cross for its outstanding effort. Delta Sigma Pi helped publicize the drives and assisted the Red Cross with setting up and taking down the equipment.

Relaxed in her chair, Amy Bick looks on confidently as she donates blood to the American Red Cross.

Posing in their new Mexican fashions, Carin Bohumolski and Michelle Zimmerman take a break from their mission work.

Painting houses in a small Kentucky community was one of the activities that kept Marty Schafer busy.

As Mexican children carry water back to their home, Carin Bohumolski stops to chat with them.

The Maryknoll Mission in Oaxaca, Mexico was the site of Spring Break for Michelle Zimmerman and Carin Bohumolski. The two had one of the most enriching experiences of their lives by volunteering their time. They worked with poverty-stricken families and spent a great deal of time with youngsters. They also visited a senior citizens facility and assisted workers with building roads in the area. The two want to spread an awareness of the lives of these people and to continue to help them.

Also volunteering their Spring Break time to help the poor were Marty Schafer, Lyn Tumberger, Maureen Loftus and Siobhan Cafferty. These four QC students went to Vanceburg, Kentucky with Sister Ann Redig, QC Campus Ministry Director. They also saw their experience as very enriching and eye-opening. They developed a close awareness of the culture through painting houses, visiting the "mountain people," and assisting in the Easter celebration. All six volunteers enjoyed their experiences and would someday like to be involved again.

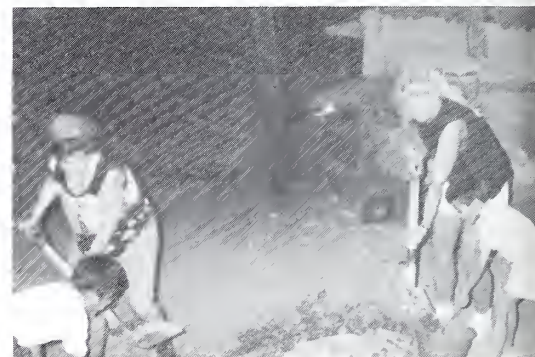

At the Glenmary Mission farm where the Kentucky volunteers visited, running water did not exist so Siobhan Cafferty had to wash her hands in a nearby stream.

ABOVE: This group of beachcombers — Cindy Orr, Amy Walton, Colleen O'Donnell, Tony Coco, Sandy Gehringer, Val Yancik, Dave Maloney, Colleen McLaughlin and friend Susie Ralph — was treated to an evening of food, folks, and entertainment by a Reggae Band at Schooners.

At the world-famous Spinnaker Nightclub, Sandy Gehringer, Susie Ralph, Jodi Hackman, Val Yancik, Colleen McLaughlin and Amy Walton show what a good time they're having.

SAA sponsored a Spring Break trip to Panama City, Florida. About 40 students enjoyed the 15-hour bus ride while others drove their own cars. Activities included a cruise to Shell Island, volleyball tourneys, mega sun tanning, and, of course, partying. Everyone enjoyed the vacation and came back to QC ready to study.

While many QC'ers frolicked in the Florida sun, other students opted for a New Orleans excursion to experience the rich traditions of jazz, historic sites, and Cajun food.

Residents of the Reagle Beagle and The Neighbor's Yard — (Front Row) Jodi Hackman, Amy Walton, Joe Rasure, Jeff Kestner, Sheri Neisen; and (Row 2) Colleen McLaughlin, Tony Coco, Cindy Orr, Ray Kuethe and Dave Maloney — enjoy the beach.

Talent Show

Q.C.'s Best Will Shine

ABOVE: Second place winner Adrian Burton sings a Whitney Houston favorite, "Saving All My Love for You." BELOW: Hosts for the evening, Billy Southworth and Pat Werner, keep the show moving with their "between acts" humor and wit!

ABOVE: Pledging eternal friendship are Sandra Paunan and Kim Dillon singing the popular standard "Side by Side." Staying in tune with the times, Jeff Chargois, entertains with a rap vocal. Judges for both talent shows were the UNION BOARD under the direction of TODD BURRELL and CAROL BYRON.

Talent Show 1991

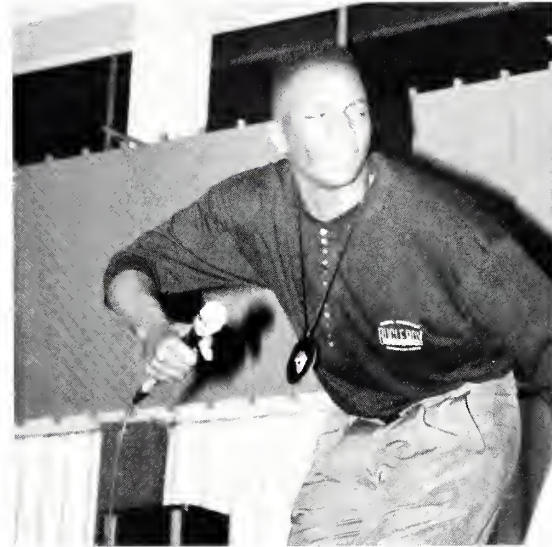

More Of QC's Stars Shine!

Soldiers in Saudi Arabia are a big concern to students on campus. Chuck Cusack and Katie Riburger honor them with a duet.

ABOVE: Crowd pleasers Kevin Brown, Stacy Whittingham, Robyn Nance and Kyle Trudell perform a medley of entertaining songs combined with modern dance.

ABOVE: A vocal interpretation of Bette Midler's "From a Distance" is offered by the stunning Pei Alexander who dedicates her performance to the troops in Saudi Arabia. RIGHT: Another popular hit from 1990, "Hold On" from the new group Wilson Phillips, is captured by Jennifer Nelson, Theresa Allison and Julie Schmidt who portray the daughters of the Mamas and the Pappas and the Beach Boys very well.

Pleasurable as always, QC's '91 Spring Talent Show provided a multitude of talent for the audience. Adrian Burton went home with the first prize trophy. Second place was stolen by the trio of Jennifer Nelson, Theresa Allison and Julie Schmidt. Decisions were tough resulting in a third place tie shared by Val Yancik and Jeff Chargois. Revealing one's talent on stage requires courage and although not everyone went home with a prize, each entry was a winner!

Airband

ABOVE: "Campus People" Mike Salerno, John Vojtech, Brian Collins and John Bacilek want to know, "If you think I'm sexy?" RIGHT: Is it "bed" time or "beat" time for the No-Go's Monica Schafer and Ann Dudek?

ABOVE: Crazy costumes inspire Jennifer and Chris Drew as emcees of Airband I. BELOW: "Smooch" (Mike Czopek, Andrew Kordek, Keith Christianson) riles up the crowd.

ABOVE: Jennifer Hoedebecke, Amy Flesner, and Melissa Crusier dream about "Summer Lovin'." RIGHT: Moving to the beat of "Dope" are Mental's Marcus Brown and Adrian Burton.

AIRBAND II, sponsored by UNION BOARD and Pizza Hut took place in March. Ten acts vied for coveted Airband-logged shirts and free pizza. Emerging as winners were "Sporting Goods-Screwdrivers-We Got It All" singing Wilson Phillip's "Hold On." Second place was Campus People with a rendition of Michael Jackson's "Billie Jean." The Silver Platters took third place dancing to a Brady Bunch TV tune, "Time to Change." Judges for Airband II were Jim and Carolyn Laumovich, Fr. Ed Shea, Dr. John Natalini, and Drs. John and Barbara Schleppenbach.

BELOW RIGHT: Reaching into the bag, held by Eileen Forneris, Dean Garfinkle chooses from lemons, tomatoes, caramels, marshmallows, saltines, bubble gum, prune juice and baby food during Operation Mess Hall.

Although Chris Stenger thinks the weekend is going well, you can't tell by Hank Tajkowski's face!

Once again, Hog Wild Weekend, QC's year-end blow-out, was a success, thanks to organizers Keith Ende, Chis Stenger and Hank Tajkowski. The theme this year was "Operation Hog Wild," in light of the Persian Gulf War. Twelve contests, ranging from passing water by Dixie cups (Operation Oasis) to wheelbarrow races (Operation Tankrace) to all eight team members standing on a 2x2 foot platform long enough to sing "Row, Row, Row Your Boat" one time (Operation Bunkerhill). Coming in first place was the "Porkers" team; "Just Do It" came in second; third place went to "CC." An evening Mass on Sunday concluded the weekend.

OPERATION

ABOVE: Getting to the finish line any way he can in Operation Scud Missile, is freshman Carlos Wiley. RIGHT: In Operation Saddam Hussein, all eight players participate. Three players must be blindfolded and are the only ones who can walk. Two people have their feet bound & two more have their hands bound and are the only ones who can talk. The final person is deadweight, both hands and feet bound. The whole team must travel in a group and cross the finish line; the team with the fastest time wins.

Modeling a tee-shirt from the weekend is junior Carrie Pierick. The emblem was designed by Padua Resident Assistant, Kevin Waegner.

LEFT: Air Volleyball was played in the gym with a team on each side of the net. Points were scored when the huge ball hit the floor, each of the nine players were bound in their positions by lines and if they moved out of those lines, they had to sit down. Other than that, there were no rules. When the game was over, both teams had a great time bouncing around, knocking into players. BELOW: Dinner Saturday night was held near the A-field; long lines of hungry students ate pounds of hot dogs, chips, and brownies.

HOG WILD

BELOW: Team members and spectators gather along sides of an air-filled strategic course to cheer teammates who are trying to beat the clock. RIGHT: Brave soul Jamie Cerneka is in the first phase of operation Dizzy Storm. The hard part is finding his way back to his team!

BELOW: Operation Uniform Exchange consists of donning seven items of clothing and taking them off again before running back to tag the next teammate. Charles Seager demonstrates how fast he can get dressed while Rachel Paunan observes.

CLUBS AND ACTIVITIES: FUN IN OUR WORLD

Student Work Force Serves

ABOVE: Work-study in Brenner Library is always rewardable. Ken Billeter appreciates knowing which books are being returned so he can maintain that special edge in completing his own research because he knows where everything is.

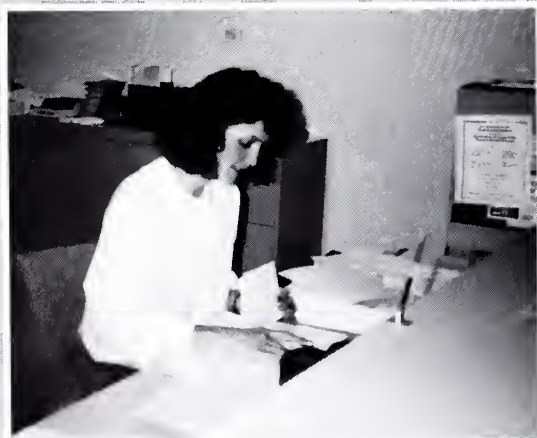

BELOW: The Admissions Office employs many students. Work-study employees, Brian Serati (standing) and Henry Francis, phone prospective students, load and unload boxes of mailings, and stuff hundreds of envelopes — not to mention the recruiting experience they gain.

Preparing for the future is what college is all about. Part of the preparation in the tradition of Quincy College comes from work-study and on-campus employment. Students earn their keep, so to speak, as student secretaries, cafeteria workers, computer lab assistants, security officers, and maintenance workers, to name a few. Not only do these students acquire first-hand experience, they also earn a few dollars to spend on those small necessities for the next two weeks of survival until the following payday.

Work-study and on-campus employment programs offer convenience for both students and faculty and administration. The students are easy-access employees for faculty and administration because they are right here and work hard. And it is convenient for students too, because they do not have to drive ten miles to their job—it's just around the corner.

BELOW: The Reading Center brings in area grade schoolers who receive extra tutoring from QC students. Most education majors find interest in this job. On-campus employee, Colleen O'Meara enjoys the company of the youngsters and their ambitions to do well in school. She is also grateful for the experience.

Intern Lisa Deany is kept busy with secretarial and accounting duties at the local investment firm, A.G. Edwards and Sons, Inc.

The Internship Program is required of seniors in many major fields. Students, with the help of faculty members, find positions in their field of study and request permission from the Academic Dean's Office and the employer to work and gain academic credit. Usually the students work for 120 to 155 total hours in a semester and receive no other payment except 3 credit hours. Local businesses often cooperate with QC offering many positions each year in order to accommodate every student. In 1991, QC students were seen on KHQA-TV, in the Chamber of Commerce Office, and at a number of other local businesses and agencies.

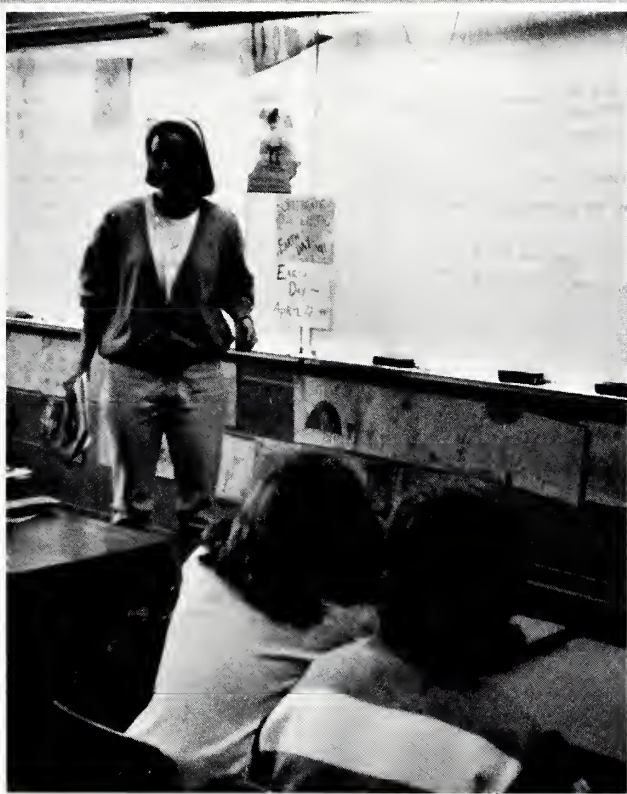

Quincy College and Community

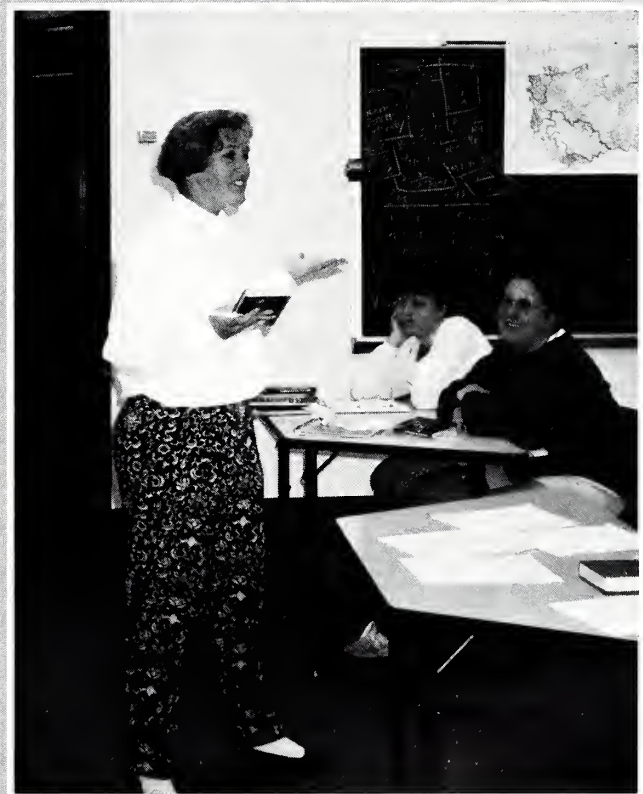

Student teaching for Dorothy Ley at St. Francis Grade School means hard work, commitment, and a great deal of satisfaction ... for the students she teaches, it means the same!

Hands-on experience is the best way to know if teaching is right for someone. The student-teaching program offered through the Education Division, in conjunction with the community, allows QC education majors to gain that experience.

As part of QC's education degree program, students are required to spend one full semester teaching. They are supervised by tenured faculty on all levels including high schools, junior high schools, and grade schools in Quincy as well as in nearby towns. The young teachers prepare classes, compose and grade tests, and create daily work for the students in their classes.

Awe and respect are visualized in every youngster's face as student teacher Shelly Winter shares her experiences of the world. On this day, Miss Winter discusses the importance of conserving the earth and recycling to celebrate the coming of Earth Day.

Teaching high school students has got to be a challenge, but not for senior English major Ann Dudek. Kafka's "Metamorphosis" is discussed this day as Miss Dudek describes all that she interprets from the book and then asks the students for their input.

College Bowl

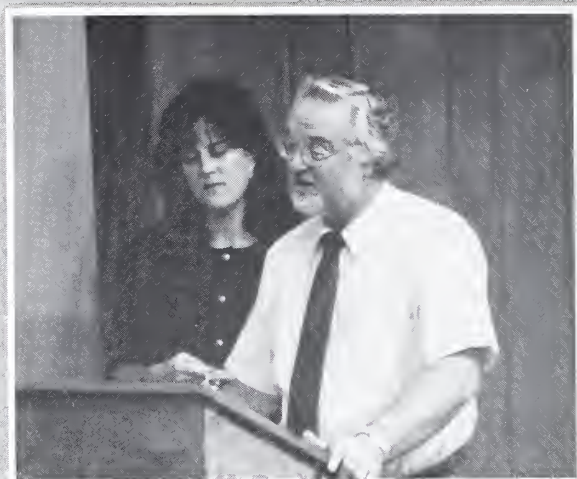

Concentrating during the competition are members of the winning "A-Team": Dan Cravens, Dave Schleppenbach, Frank Arnold, and Craig Harms.

Finishing in second place, members of the "Creeping Death" squad (Top Row-Chris Wangard, Dan Allison, Jason Sass, and Jeff Harrison) battle it out with the third place finishers, the "Broeker's Boys" (Bottom Row-Terry Ludwig, Mike Heinz, Gerard Broeker, and Jamie Cerneka).

Taking part in an exhibition match in preparation for the regionals, members of the winning "A-Team" (back row) make it a clean sweep by defeating a faculty squad comprised of Dr. Leonard Biallas, Fr. Ken Capalbo, Paula Hanley, and Bob Carlisle.

Questioning the team is Dr. Leonard Biallas assisted by Theresa Powell.

The long road to the regional college bowl began in November when five teams battled for first place. Although the competition lasted 3 days, it was quick and exciting as the players displayed their knowledge in art, history, literature, science, sports, and current events. Dr. Gary Carter, QC College Bowl moderator, chose eight players to be part of the regional team. He then prepared Frank Arnold, Jason Sass, Dave Schleppenbach, Dan Cravens, Craig Harms, Chris Wangard, Jeff Harrison and Dan Allison for the tournament held March 1-2 at Western Illinois University. The team had one final practice game in February against a faculty squad, beating them two games out of three. They were obviously ready for the regionals!

Twelve teams from Illinois and Indiana participated in the regionals with the QC team proudly taking fourth place. QC's record was 3-2 with wins over Notre Dame, Earlham College and SIU-Edwardsville. It was quite an accomplishment for our young team since, in some cases, QC was competing against graduate students. The group is eager to improve on this year's success and looks forward to working again together in 1991-92.

College Bowl competition is tough, but Terry Ludwig and Mike Heinz manage to relax between rounds.

Earth Day is celebrated by Rachel Paunan and Devon Niebling at South Park.

QC's Volunteer Network, a program promoting volunteerism among students, began its 2nd year with the annual Club/Volunteer Fair. Six community agencies took part offering students info on careers in volunteer service. QC's North Campus Gym was the site of this year's Herald-Whig Good News of Christmas campaign. QC was successful in gathering food, clothing, and household items for a six-member family. In addition, QC scheduled four blood drives throughout the year; and students & faculty were most generous in giving the Gift of Life! New this year was the SILENT HERO PROGRAM. Each month a QC student was recognized for outstanding volunteer efforts. QC also joined Campus Outreach and Campus Outreach Opportunity League (COOL) in 1990-91. These organizations kept QC informed of new ideas for campus projects.

The week of Oct. 15-21 was National Alcohol Awareness Week. Bob Carlisle, QC Coordinator of Alcohol & Drug Education and BACCHUS advisor, was the major force behind the well-organized campus observance which sought to make individuals more aware of the dangers of alcohol abuse.

Special events included lectures, displays, and demonstrations. Garner and Padua Halls hosted discussions focusing on different aspects of the disease while the Student Senate and Club presidents held a leaders' forum. Faculty and staff participated in an "Alcohol & Violence" presentation.

Alcohol information displays were set up in the Cellar & Cafeteria. The Campus Ministry House held an open meeting for adult children of alcoholics; a prayer service was held near the kiosk; and a candlelight Mass was celebrated in remembrance of the 732 people who died in drunk driving accidents in Illinois in 1989.

Other major activities included the Illinois Dept. of Traffic Safety's "seat belt convincer"; a simulated "die-in" (one person dies every 20 minutes from alcohol-related activities); the "Grim Reaper's" distribution of alcohol information; and the Quincy Police Dept.'s breathalyzer demonstration in Centennial Hall.

Specializing in computer art, art history and photography, Fr. Tom Brown's 38 years of leadership is vital in the success of the Art Department.

Creating Art For The 90's

The "starving artist routine" is not something that QC art majors often experience. Combining talent, creativity and hard work by students with dedicated and demanding professors, the art graduate is well prepared for a career. The quality of work is superb and best captured during the two major student art shows which conclude the QC Art Gallery Exhibition Series in the Brenner Library each year. Individual artists are also given recognition throughout the year in smaller shows.

Sounds From S

In Solano Hall, the place they call home, hard work and dedication were trademarks of this year's Music Department. Each performing group gave one or more concerts during the year and combined talents for several special events.

This year the Chamber Choir and Wind and Jazz Ensembles went on tour, the vocal group visiting parts of Illinois and Indiana and the instrumental organizations performing in Missouri.

In addition to teaching, QC's music faculty served as conductors for the major performing groups: Louis Margaglione-Wind Ensemble, Steve Parke-Jazz Ensemble & Pep Band, Valeria Temple-Thompson-Choral Group and Ed Koehler-Pep Band and Wind Ensemble Assistant.

Reintroducing a musical to QC's agenda was no easy task for Director Valeria Thompson. However, Ms. Thompson, cast and crew combined their impressive talents to transform the script of "Jesus Christ Superstar" into a vibrant and emotion-packed musical experience for the audience.

Tryouts began right before Christmas break; and the cast was selected and ready to go at the start of the Spring 1991 semester. Rehearsals began the first week back and continued until opening night leading to sell-out crowds for the five-night run Mar. 7-11. An additional performance was scheduled to help satisfy a long waiting list. "Jesus Christ, Superstar" truly reflected the time and effort that went into its preparation. A powerful and dramatic ending only added to the show's success: "Awe-inspiring!"

A literal translation of horsing around is illustrated by cast members Kyle Trudell and John Stimler who continue their "acting" even when off stage.

Teaching youngsters at Chicago's Holy Angels school is a challenge for Laura Olson, Colleen O'Meara, Dave Guller and Dan Cravens.

Volunteering at the Campus Ministry House involves spending many hours answering the phone, leaving messages and greeting guests. However, one of QC's busiest volunteers, Jane Cincotta, doesn't seem to mind.

For most students, the Persian Gulf War was their first time to see America at war. A struggle for many students involved conflicting feelings concerning the justice or injustice of the war, something each student needed to decide for themselves. Vicki Sandercock (LEFT) and her daughter pray for loved ones in the Middle East during a Prayer for Peace held in the Chapel.

Building upon an expanded Campus Ministry program, Sr. Ann Redig, Director, added many new programs this year including a Clown Ministry, Marches for Peace, and a Pro-Life Group. Along-side these flourishing groups were the even larger returning programs such as Needs of Our World (N.O.O.W.) and the Campus Ministry Council. The mission of the QC Campus Ministry is to provide a place for students of all religions to develop a deeper understanding of the world around them with God as their guide.

The Campus Ministry Council is the Student Senate of Campus Ministry. It is composed of students who examine the programs sponsored by Campus Ministry and reflect on the need for those events, groups in Campus Ministry. Another small group with great devotion was the Psychology Club. Under the supervision of president Carin Bohumolski, and advisor Dr. Wendy Beller, the club sponsored a number of guest speakers satisfying the curiosity of both psychology and non-psychology majors.

Nursing Club

Enjoying their final year at QC, the Nursing Club tried to make the best of the concluding hours. Speakers and bake sales were appreciated by the entire student body. Besides offering "good eats," nursing club members assisted wherever they could at school and local Blood Drives and in other Quincy community health programs enabling them to gain valuable hands-on experience. Composed mainly of nursing majors, the club could not boast a quantitative advantage; however, its devotion to the nursing program combined with the community effort displayed by all members served as a source of pride to everyone at QC.

Psychology Club

Alum Tracy Egghermann addresses students on eating disorders and points to ways unhealthy patients express their unhappiness.

Of special interest to all students was a guest speaker's discussion on stress management. Other presentations were given on bulimia, anorexia and other topics. Field trips kept this group light and happy among so many heavy issues.

Book sales are a major fundraiser for the Rho Rho Club. Donations of books are made by faculty, students and community members. Esther Bassett makes sure that she and her family are well-stocked with good reading material. Tim Schieferdecker is pleased to make the sale.

Rho Rho Club

Rho Rho, QC's English Honor Society Club, is composed of a small group of English majors and minors who examine modern literature in-depth through various means. Programs include movies and films which, upon viewing, are discussed in a colloquium-style format. Dr. Joseph Messina, associate professor of English, serves as advisor. Officers are elected and initiation takes place in the fall.

Computer Science Club

Computer Science Club members include: Professor Ram Raghuraman and BACK: Robert McLaughlin, Nate McCorvie, Chris Stenger and Steve Meunier. FRONT: Mindee Miller, Khantharack Sonethongkham and Chris Lantz.

Made up of computer science majors, the Computer Science Club offers tutorial guidance to students. Working on an academic and intellectual level, the Club stresses the importance of computer awareness and discusses new and inviting hard and soft ware. These members also make good use of their talents in the state-of-the-art computer science labs at QC.

SQUAWKS Club

Active SQUAWK members include: Bill Bentley, Dave Mikolajczak and Eric Elbert.

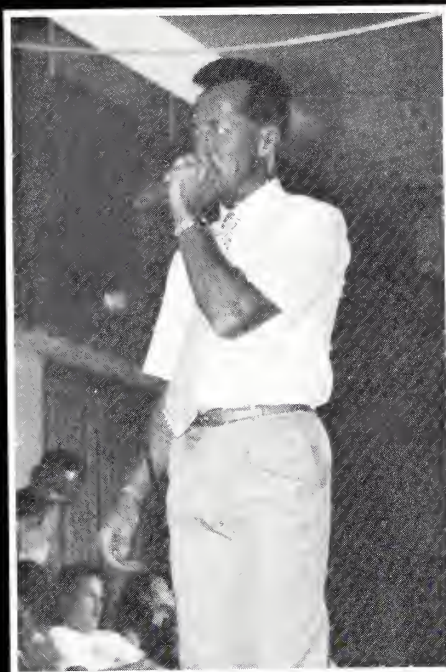

Under the direction of Ann Rasure and Jim Naumovich, the SQUAWK Club was introduced as a way to encourage high-spirited participation by students and fans during athletic events. Working with the cheerleaders and coordinating theme nights, the Organization was kept busy, and its special programs were enjoyed and appreciated by all athletic participants.

The Student Activities Association (SAA), chaired by senior Jodi Matthews, was again one of the busiest organizations on campus this year. The group's major responsibility was to develop new and interesting extra-curricular programs while capitalizing on successes of the past. Providing an ongoing series of activities that would satisfy the diverse interests of the student body was their major goal.

Activities included lectures, comedians, musicians, dances, dinner theater, air band, talent show, bike rides, volunteer leaf raking, special social events during family weekends, and a spring break trip. The committee provided entertainment as well as assistance to the College and the Quincy community. All members, and non-members, benefited from the association and enjoyed the events they sponsored.

The simulation was part of the annual Alcohol Awareness Week sponsored by BACCHUS.

Because . . .

This year BACCHUS worked closely with area college representatives to create a Designated Driver Program to be administered by local and area bars and dance halls. The program was implemented in January 1991, allowing students to drive safely to and from QC when out for an evening with friends. Local participating pubs agreed to stamp a designated driver and/or to give the driver a special cup designed specifically to hold non-alcoholic beverages which were provided free. The program was not limited to students only; community members were welcome to participate. ABOVE: QC BACCHUS president Mark Filla (left) joins area college reps at Designated Driver Program press conference.

The Designated Driver Program, Alcohol Awareness Week, and reception of the Outstanding Event Award presented by BACCHUS (Boosting Alcohol Consciousness Concerning the Health of University Students) International were not enough to keep the QC Chapter content. They also hosted the annual regional conference; and, of course, the ever-famous BACCHUS Bar could be seen at all major events. BACCHUS was kept busy this year in carrying out their theme "drink smart."

... but Marty seems to be having some difficulty locating his nose!

One of the many activities planned for Alcohol Awareness Week was "QC Night at Casino Lanes" where students could enjoy a night of free bowling. Other events on the schedule included an evening of discussion on "Women and Alcohol," an open meeting of Adult Children of Alcoholics, a DUI demonstration and a concluding B.A.C.C.H.U.S. dance with music provided by our own WWQC. RIGHT: The free bowling attracted Brandy Connelly, although she seems to be having a bit of trouble tabulating the score.

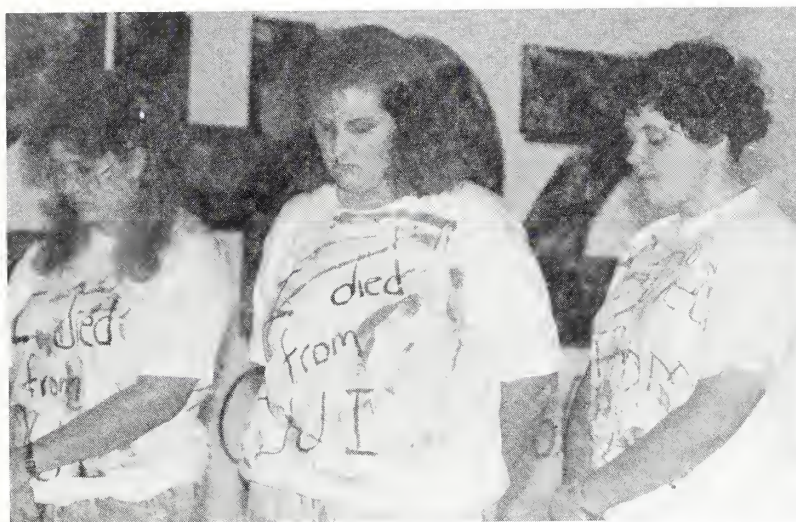

Friendships Are Too Valuable To Be Wasted

ABOVE: Death is a sobering event for Chuck Seager, who decided to make his death noticeable by standing on a desk in the Ceramics Lab and revealing his pain. Some died quietly while others dramatized the event.

OPPOSITE PAGE: Delta Sigma Pi members Ken Billeter and Nicole Nemer listen attentively to the plans behind the Designated Driver Program. Delta Sigma Pi agreed to help fund the program and help locate sponsors so that the program may be permanent at QC.

One person dies every 20 minutes from alcohol-related events. To symbolize this tragedy, every 20 minutes a student died by stopping what they were doing, standing, and putting on a T-shirt that read, "I died from DUI" and remaining silent for the day. ABOVE: Amy Wear, Amy Fessler and Courtney Real have definitely felt the blow of a silent day. RIGHT: Sean Jones, Shawn Kane and Charles Bryson are thinking what if it were true. That evening, a prayer service was conducted to pray for all of those who have died in alcohol-related events and to pray for people remaining alive to think before they get into a car and behind the wheel when they really shouldn't.

This year QC established a Union Board comprised of students who were responsible for ensuring security and smooth operation of the student union (where hundreds of students spend leisure time away from studies). Besides keeping a watchful eye on things, the union managers distributed games and change to the students.

Union Board members were each responsible for organizing one special event per semester. Examples included pool, ping-pong and dart tournaments. Thanks to the dedicated work of these people, the student union remained a fun and safe place to be throughout the year.

In order to deal with infractions of school policy, Quincy College administers a Judicial Board and College Board. The J-board is comprised of students who decide the seriousness of their peers' offenses. College Board is comprised of three students and three faculty members who handle the more serious infractions. Both boards were supervised this year by Assistant Dean of Students Greg Warren.

The College and Judicial Boards convened pending the caseload need, and many exhausting hours of decision-making were completed. Although it was not always a pleasant job, it was one that needed to be done.

M.B.A.

Community-oriented academic programs at QC have increased dramatically in recent years to meet the constantly changing needs of those living in Quincy and the surrounding area. The highly successful Master of Business Administration (M.B.A.) program was no exception as a record number 81 graduate students participated in this year's course curriculum. Designed as a commuter degree program accommodating those working full-time, classes met during the evenings and on Saturday mornings. Seven candidates for the M.B.A. degree were awarded diplomas on May 19 including five from Quincy, one from Springfield, IL, and one from LaGrange, MO.

Guest speakers, including Dennis Adams of Knapheide Mfg. Co. (above), are scheduled regularly and offer graduate students a closer look at current business trends.

M.B.A. students approach their classes more intensely due to the curriculum's specialized content and amount of material covered in the one-meeting-per-week format.

WWQC EXPANDS

Director of Operations, Frank Cann, offers leadership to over 40 student radio volunteers.

Some of Dave Schuster's responsibilities as Director of Music involve completion of order forms for new music.

WWQC, composed of 40 students (including 7 executive board members) and 2 faculty members, is college radio at its best. Combining a variety of personally selected music with the best of National Public Radio (NPR) and American Public Radio (APR) makes WWQC an attractive listening alternative and information source. QC's affiliation with NPR and APR offers outstanding orchestral and operatic programs as well as indepth news and special reports which are not available on commercial stations. To this, WWQC's personnel add their own personal touch with locally produced music and interview shows including "Talk About Talent"; "An Hour in the Middle of the Day" (Big Band sounds); and "Jazz Waves With Mike Smith."

LEFT: WWQC's only two adult community volunteers, Mike Smith and Steve Denemark, provide the audience with a special local flavor because of their closer contact with the community. Smith features jazz Sunday evenings and Denemark offers big band favorites Friday afternoons.

LEFT: Adding new programs each year is essential to keep WWQC in the mainstream of radio broadcasting. This year's new favorite is "Talk About Talent," a series of interviews featuring local artists. Discussing music education in the Quincy community is one of the program's first guests, high school music teacher and performer Dan Sherman (left) interviewed by WWQC Director Fr. Harry Speckman.

RIGHT: On-air personality and Director of Training Anup Salgia checks the incoming mail. Anup features reggae and world beat music Friday evenings with his show entitled, "Dance Party and Afro Pop Worldwide."

At the Fall Club Fair, an enthusiastic Interhall group (Susie Fannon, Mark Filla, Kristin Kelleher) does its best to attract new members.

A major Interhall function, Mother's Weekend, features QC's first-ever Craft Show held in the QC Gym.

Interhall

QC's Interhall organization, working to coordinate activities between residence halls, took charge this year in planning many well-organized weekend events including Mother's Weekend, Father's Weekend, and Little Bro./Little Sister Weekend. An ambitious addition to Mom's Weekend this year was a Saturday morning Craft Show in the Gym Annex featuring over 30 merchants. Also new this year was Interhall's close working relationship with QC's Volunteer Network.

Working behind the scenes to promote a strong alumni association, many students volunteered their time in projects that were not directly related to the student body. Under the supervision of Alumni Director Kevin Reller, members of Student Alumni Services (SAS) attended many alumni events to help strengthen alumni ties with QC. SAS was most visible this year in their coordination of the annual Run for the Tower, a one-mile and 5K event attracting runners of all ages.

ORGANIZATIONS

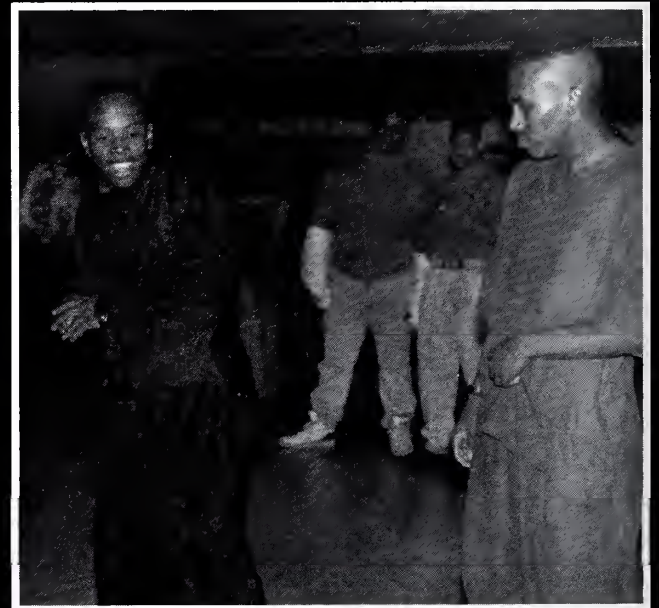

Black Student Perspective

Newly established this year, the Black Student Perspective (BSP) organization worked to increase campus and community awareness of black minority issues. "Let's Talk," a monthly forum, drew students and community residents in an informal discussion program to share views, opinions, and ideas for the future. A "Fun House" dance was scheduled as an "ice-breaker" social where original rap and dance performances were featured. BSP president Horace Guthrie said the group hopes to begin a new tradition in implementing change and enhancing unity.

Not Pictured: Co-Advisor Valeria Temple-Thompson.

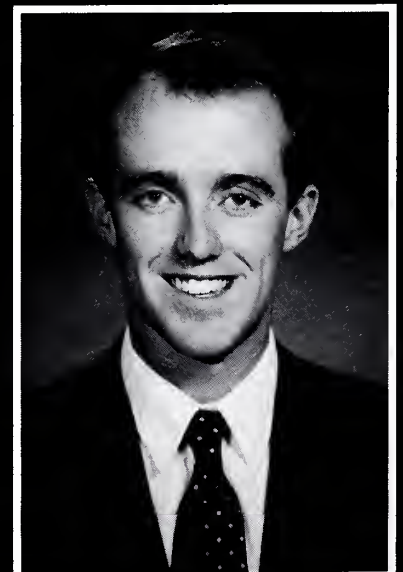

Members of the Quincy community are invited to join BSP's "Fun House" social gathering held in April.

Student Senate

Providing an exchange of ideas between students and the College administration was the goal of the Student Senate organization. Although Student Senate had its hands in many social and volunteer activities, the group's main focus was to promote positive responses to problems in the QC community. Functioning as QC's student government, members sought to offer the student body answers to their questions regarding college policy, budget issues, and other major concerns.

LEFT: Serving as president of QC's 1990-91 Student Senate, Jim Burke used his leadership and organizational skills to keep students well informed.

Gyrfalcon

Compiling a year of QC memories was a major responsibility for members of the Gyrfalcon Yearbook staff. Many tasks needed to be completed before a single page could be sent to the plant including photo coverage, identification of photos, body and caption copy, layout, and computer input. Each staff member added his or her own touch with special graphics, screens, and artwork. The yearbook work area, located in the PR Office, provided easy access to current files and photos.

Sharing the latest campus news with the QC Community was the goal of this year's Falcon newspaper staff. The Falcon Office and work area, located in Student Center, housed supplies and a computer on which pages were designed using the pagemaker format. Students and faculty looked forward to reading timely editorials, letters to the editor, special features, and sports updates. An expanded advertising program this year garnered additional funds for the paper's operation.

Offering over 30 bachelor degree programs, one master's degree, and five pre-professional programs, Quincy College attracts the academian. Maintaining high standards and a low student/professor ratio, QC provides the necessary environment for the student's primary concern while at college, academics.

Highlighting the academic world of Quincy College in 1991 was the addition of a master's degree program in education and a non-traditional bachelor's degree program in business administration. Reluctantly, funds needed to be reallocated from another program; and to the disappointment of the nursing students, their program — which began in 1982 — will be phased out.

A liberal arts education provides students with a basic understanding of the essential criteria necessary for a happy and fulfilling life. The requirements of English, science, physical education, music or art, and other areas of study develop well-rounded, adaptable students while providing the opportunity for each student to develop individually.

Academics taught at QC require students to think, observe, and evaluate. Everyday experiences in the classroom, as well as outside functions — such as lectures, panel discussions, or the simple observation of life — are all factors contributing to the well-rounded background that a liberal arts education furnishes.

The finished product is always to be admired, whether it is a piece of art, a research paper, or a biological analysis. Art student, Amy Hesselbacher, feels satisfied following her creations.

In order to remain accurate, measurements must be made of all samples; and soil is no exception for earth science students Hank Tajkowski and Ted Bullock.

DEC. 8, 1923 - DEC. 2, 1990

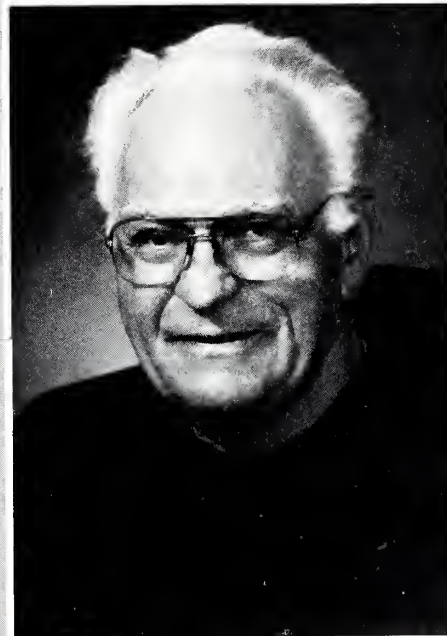

Philosophy professor, sports enthusiast and gentle friend are only a few synonyms to the name, Fr. Lucan Freppert, O.F.M. Many people remember the quiet, endearing way he entered their lives. For some it was through a class; others he met on his walks down penny lane or sitting in his lawn chair at the Friary offering splendid smiles to all passers-by. Embodying the life of St. Francis, Fr. Lucan offered something to everyone he came into contact with and all that he met may consider themselves blessed to have known this wonderful role-model.

The Prayer Of St. Francis

Lord, make me an instrument of Your peace.
 Where there is hatred, let me
 sow love;
 where there is injury, pardon;
 where there is doubt, faith;
 where there is despair, hope;
 where there is darkness, light;
 and where there is sadness, joy.

O Divine Master,
 grant that I may not so much seek to be consoled as to console;
 to be understood as to understand;
 to be loved as to love;

for it is in giving that we receive,
 it is in pardoning that we are pardoned,
 and it is in dying that we are born to eternal life.

MAY 22, 1919 - APRIL 8, 1991

"Mr. QC!" ... that was Bro. Clete Van Ackeren. Spending his entire Franciscan career at QC, Bro. Clete is probably best remembered for his devotion to the Mail Room; but he actually worked in almost every area of QC's operation & was a great sports enthusiast. Most will remember how he resembled Santa Claus walking down the hall with that big white laundry bag lugged over his shoulder. Full of energy and thoughtfulness were the ways that this man lived in the St. Francis tradition; and his hand was always extended to anyone who reached out to him.

Yearbook is one of the many activities that keeps Sandy Gehringer busy.

Helping To Preserve Our Memories

Co-Editors:
Cindy Orr
Michelle Zimmerman

Advisor: Pam Sherman

Closing out the year, GYRFALCON staff members get together for a farewell barbecue: Cindy Orr, Michelle Zimmerman (with dog Appy), Lisa Schuster, Sandra Gehringer, Krista Dougherty, Advisor Pam Sherman, Ann Spinner, Jeremy Wingerter and Lisa Deany.

Before receiving the 1989-90 GYRFALCON, QC students must complete a publicity questionnaire and wait patiently until Lisa Deany passes out the books.

While Ann Spinner works on a layout, Lisa Deany calls to get information for Airband pages.

Cousins Krista Dougherty and Cindy Orr work together on a humorous layout. Those pictures of the underclassmen must be very funny!
